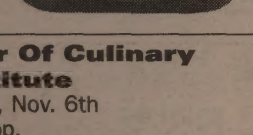
"Thou Shalt Not" Broadway Matinee
Sat., Oct. 27th
$120 pp.

A musical about an adulterous affair that breaks only two of the Ten Commandments, adultery and murder. Susan Stroman is the director-choreographer of "The Producers," "Contact," and "The Music Man." This is Harry Conick Jr.'s first Broadway Show. Package includes orchestra ticket, lunch at La Petite Auberge and round-trip transportation.

United Nations Tour Special Event
Wed., Nov. 14th
$67 pp.
NO jeans or sneakers

This is a fascinating tour of the world's center of diplomacy. Package includes deluxe motorcoach transportation, 1-hour guided tour and a beautiful buffet lunch at the U.N. Delegates Dining Room. Dress is semi-formal; jackets, skirts or pant suits for ladies.

"Noises Off" Broadway Matinee
Sat., Nov. 3rd
$120 pp.



This London and Broadway hit about a troupe of fifth-rate actors performing a perfectly awful comedy is a sidesplitting delight that leaves audiences gasping for breath. Misspoken lines and missed cues create pandemonium onstage, while backstage romances and jealousies spill from behind the curtain. Written by Michael Frayn. Starring Patti LuPone and Peter Gallagher. Directed by Jeremy Sams. Package includes orchestra show ticket, lunch at Giambelli's 50th Restaurant and round-trip transportation.

New York Philharmonic in Concert
Tues., Dec. 4th
$95 pp.

Bobby McFerrin conducts the NY Philharmonic; Ravel's Le tombeau de Couperin; Rimsky-Korsakov's Cappriccio espagnol. Package includes 1st-Tier ticket, dinner at La Veranda and round-trip transportation.

Tour Of Culinary Institute

The Down Factory Store

www.downfactorystore.com

Thanks to our retail and "online" customers we are one of the largest resources for goose down comforters, pillows and featherbeds. Consumers that compare our quality and prices to those of department stores, discounters, catalogs and other web sites find that we are indeed unbeatable - and we guarantee that! Know the facts of down before you buy.

FACT: Down comes from the chest of the bird to keep it insulated from the weather. Feathers (those things with quills) come from the back of the bird to keep it dry. Down can cost as much as $10.00 an ounce, feathers 10¢ an ounce. Over 90% of down manufacturers find it to their advantage to add over 30% feathers to their down. It's like buying three pounds of ground sirloin and getting two pounds of meat and one pound of fat. You have paid for meat and got fat, it's the same with their down, they both do it because it's legal. We do not contaminate our down by adding feathers to it.

Guaranteed LOWEST Down Prices in THE COUNTRY

PHONE ORDER DEPARTMENT

1(888) 414 - DOWN

KNOW THE FACTS BEFORE YOU BUY IT

FACT: Fill power, this is the amount the cubic inches filled by one ounce of down. Higher fill power means a higher quality down. You will find that as the quality of the down increases, so does the comfort & life of the item.

FACT: We use only high thread count, baffle box construction, 100% cotton covers on our down comforters & pillows. Down insulates by trapping air and holding in your body temperature, keeping you comfortable through the night. Low quality comforters are usually heavier because it takes more of an inferior down to fill a comforter. Inferior down becomes clumpy and it can't breath, resulting in your becoming over heated and uncomfortable. Our high quality down gives you the warmth and comfort without the weight.

FACT: In all likelihood you will have your comforter longer than the car you are now driving.

"We go the distance for you."

The Flesh Eaters

Memories Of A Grade B Horror Movie Made On The Beach In Montauk

By Dan Rattiner

It's time to bring back The Flesh Eaters.

In 1964, when I was just a wet behind the ears kid starting a newspaper, someone told me they were making a movie in Montauk.

"They're staying at the Surf and Sand Inn," they said. "The whole crew. The director, the stars, the monster."

"They've got a monster?" I asked.

"In the garage at the back of the Inn."

I could not imagine a more interesting story for this newspaper than writing about the making of a movie here. As it turned out, I got a lot more than I bargained for than just watching them make a movie.

The director was a man named Jack Curtis.

"You know where we can find things in this town?" he asked me.

"Sure. I run the newspaper here."

We were sitting at a table in the bar of the Surf and Sand, now the Surfside Inn, on the Old Montauk Highway. It was eleven in the morning. The surf was booming on the beach below.

By day, the Surf and Sand was closed and in reconstruction from the revelry of the night before. People with brooms and trash bins, mops and sponges were cleaning up all around. At six the place opened for dinner. By ten, the band would set up. How Curtis and the rest of the movie crew, which had the rooms upstairs, ever got any sleep I'll never know. But they were there all that summer.

Anyway, that's how I got to be the location scout, gofer and utility assistant for the making of one of the first movies shot entirely in the Hamptons. I also got to meet the monster. And I spent an evening, which never developed into anything, with the leading lady.

Late at night, I went with Rita Morley up to her room. She was very beautiful and a little drunk and it was just one of those things...

Here is a description of The Flesh Eaters from the 1999 edition of Maltin's Movie and Video Guide.

FLESH EATERS, THE, 87 minutes. * 1/2 Rita Morley, Martin Kosleck, Byron Sanders, Barbara Walken. Group trapped on island with deranged scientist is attacked by tiny but plentiful creatures that eventually make a giant monster. Occasionally tense, but gruesome and generally boring. Longer version on video.

The November issue of Talk magazine is filled with all the great stuff New York is known for and how the movers and shakers are personally seeing to it that, even in the teeth of September 11, all continues to move along. Entitled New York Lives, we see a lot of our own Hampton's crowd there in the pages of photos. Representing the Directors' Guild we see the faces of Nora Ephron, Griffin Dune and Jane Rosenthal. Jazz giants Percy and Jimmy Heaths were in the Jazz group pictured. The heavy hitters photographed also included Liz Smith, Leonard Lauder, Barbara Walters, Barry Diller, Alex Von Bidder, Michael Bloomberg and Diane Sawyer. Other names that ring a bell for us out here are Drew Nieporent of Tribeca Grill, founder of Def Jam Records Russell Simmons, Harry (Coco) Brown, Jimmy Finkelstein (President and CEO of NCI) and Carl Ichan. Jimmy Finkelstein, who was photographed with The Power Players, was quoted as saying "day after day, when you see the incredible rescue efforts of the firemen, the police, and others, I know there is tremendous goodness in the world and that we will rebuild our city, our nation, our lives and yes, someday maybe we'll even play poker again." Very well said. We are proud of all these who have been known to call the Hamptons their own from time to time.

Laughter is the best medicine. Jerry Seinfeld, our quiet summer resident out here, pulled it off with a benefit for the families of firemen and police lost in the tragedy of September 11. Carnegie Hall was packed with an audience of who's who and people who wanted to show support, and they were ready to laugh. Though we feel the remark from Mayor Rudy Giuliani, at the beginning of the show set the mood for it. "If you don't laugh, I'll have you arrested." Jerry's remarks about married life prove he still has a long career ahead of him as a comedian. The humor has gone the route of "married life." He warned the husbands of the crowd to avoid two dangerous games a wife can drag you into. "Do you think I'm fat" or the lethal "Do you think my friend is pretty." $1.86 million was raised. You do us proud, Jerry.

On the Hampton front, Ronan Tynan, renowned Irish Tenor, has been rescheduled to sing for the Dominican Sisters Family Health Service on October 20 at 7 p.m. This will be held at Southampton High School Auditorium. This is an organization that quietly has been moving small mountains out here for years and they deserve your help. Please call 728-0937 for details.

Jerry Della Femina and Judy Licht will host a fund raising dinner at Della Femina Restaurant on Saturday, October 20 for Dr. Gail Schonfeld. Invited guests and supporters of this campaign include Jerry Seinfeld, Jimmy Buffett, Lorne Michaels, Courtney Ross, among many

The deranged scientist, of course, was Martin Kosleck. He was the most well known actor in the cast, having played an evil scientist or Nazi in dozens of movies prior to The Flesh Eaters. He was a bit long in the tooth by the time of the making of The Flesh Eaters, but sitting around the bar table at the Surf and Sand, which was Flesh Eaters central control during that summer, he was held in some awe by the other, much younger leading ladies and men of this film. On numerous occasions, I looked at him and wondered about what a trooper he was, sleeping upstairs with all that racket.

I commented earlier that The Flesh Eaters was one of the first films ever shot entirely in the Hamptons and that is true, but in the film it is never identified as the Hamptons. It is, in fact, an island, a deserted island where nobody goes and apparently people have never gone before, a feat accomplished by filming practically all of it on deserted beaches, (some of which I found.)

Other scenes took place inside tents, which these stranded academic types set up in the backyard of the Surf and Sand, with Kosleck inside, getting closer and closer to developing some evil concoction. (I was one of those holding the tent flap bottoms sitting outside. On cue, which is when the wind was supposed to be blowing, we would rattle the tent flaps.)

As for the monster in the garage, he was a crab about nine feet tall, made of paper mache painted red and yellow on top of an elaborate armature, and he had bloodshot eyes. He had been made by N. Y. U. students and it took six people to wheel him out for his lone performance, which was to emerge from the sea and menace the few surviving academic types, make horrible squealing noises (which were later dubbed in), and then die.

I should point out this was long before digital special effects. It was even long before normal special effects. This movie was made at a time when, if you needed a monster to come out of the ocean, you got a monster to come out of the ocean. It didn't look real. But back then, it was all we had, and even in black in white, if it came from outer space and was accompanied by loud screeching noises, it scared the hell out of everybody.

I remember several scenes from this movie. They included the daughter of the mad scientist, beautiful Rita Morley, pleading unsuccessfully with her father not to try to communicate with the monster.

"It only wants to be our friend," Kosleck said in that German accent.

And I remember a lot of people running awkwardly around on the beach grabbing at their arms and legs and then dying. This was dealt with later on in the editing room, where very primitive special effects actually WERE added. These were glowing, tiny clumps of monsters, each about the size of a bug, that crawled up people's limbs and ate at them until the people died.

Once, late at night, I went with Rita Morley up to her room. She was very beautiful and a little drunk and it was one of those things where I wanted to go up there to see what would happen and she, seeing I was about fifteen years younger than she was, probably didn't want me to go up there but let me anyway. Nothing happened.

The movie came out in theatres. I saw it. But it was neither a big hit nor a bomb. I suspect that in the long run it probably broke even.

About 1980, it was on TV on Channel Nine, and I made a tape of it. It is a pretty embarrassing excuse for a movie, sort of in the mode of They Came From Outer Space or Men From Mars, but not as professional or polished. Sort of an also ran.

Dan's Papers holds a tiny, tiny film festival bi-annually, called THE DAN'S PAPERS "THEY MADE THE MOVIE HERE" FILM FESTIVAL. On ten consecutive Saturdays in the spring and fall we show ten consecutive movies that have scenes in them from these parts. Movie critic Guy de Fraumeni hosts the screenings, which take place at the Ross School in East Hampton. But we have never shown The Flesh Eaters.

The reason? Try as I might, I have not been able to get a video of this movie. Maltin's says they were made. Blockbuster says they are out of print. As for my copy, it was made in the outmoded Beta format and I haven't gotten around to converting it. Also, who wants to watch it break for commercials? This was Channel Nine. I think there is one for TAB. Another for Ipana Toothpaste.

This autumn's Dan's Papers "They Made The Movie Here" Film Festival begins Saturday at the Ross School Library in East Hampton with a screening of Hitchcock's masterful suspense thriller, North By Northwest. The film stars Cary Grant, who is pursued cross-country from Glen Cove, the actual location, to Mount Rushmore, a huge studio set. Admission is free. Show time is 3 p.m. For the full schedule see page 43. •

Landmark On Shelter Island Torn Down. Who's To Blame?

By Dan Rattiner

If you start reading this article, I need your promise that you will continue to read it until the end. It is important, and when you get to the end you will see why. Do not start this article unless you can finish it.

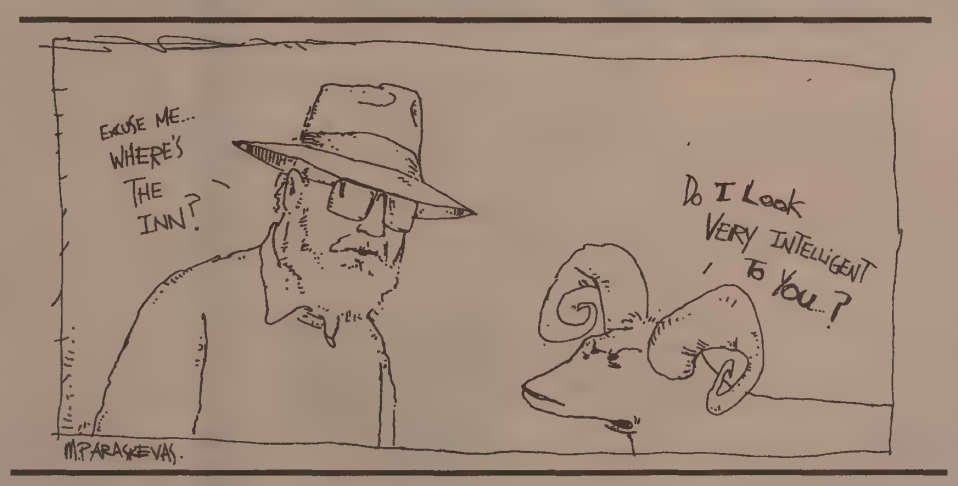
I took the ferry to Shelter Island the other day with a friend. He had never been there and I wanted to show him around. I hadn't been there in five years. We went to Crescent Beach and to the Itzhak Perlman Music School, located at what used to be the Peconic Lodge. We went to look at the big old summer homes in Shelter Island Heights.

One of the highlights of any trip to Shelter Island of course is a visit to the Ram's Head Inn. Built during the early part of the last century, it is a stately, rambling affair with 17 guest rooms, a dining room, card room and grand living room leading through French doors to a veranda. Beyond that is the lawn, some tennis courts and some docks with small boats bobbing about. The sun sets over the water, visible from the veranda and living room. If you want to get married here, and because it is such a romantic spot many people do, it is a good idea to book the place far, far ahead. All together, the place sits on about five acres of waterfront property sloping down to the shore.



"It is not easy to get to the Ram's Head Inn," I said. "You have to take some very narrow roads through the woods. Then you cross a causeway. It sits on the brow of the hill."

"Wow," my friend said.

Shelter Island is not very big, as you know. I got lost once trying to find the right narrow road. But eventually, I was on the long causeway to Ram's Head Island. We passed a high platform, built by environmentalists, where ospreys had built their nest. And then, coming to the end of the causeway, there were the docks and the broad lawn leading up toward the top of the hill.

"The Inn is up there, in among those trees," I said.

We drove up. And where the Ram's Head was supposed to be, there were four modern homes. They were clustered right where the driveway for the Ram's Head was. I was staggered. I stopped the car.

"They've torn down the Ram's Head Inn," I said. "What's here are these four homes. This is incredible."

My friend said nothing.

"There must be some mistake," I said. I drove out the driveway, made a right, and continued on higher up into Ram Island. More private homes were there. I turned around. Drove back.

"I don't get this," I said, driving back into the common driveway for the four houses. "It's gone. They've sold off the property and knocked it down. And they've made them into private lots. Incredible." I turned the car around again.

"There are some people painting a house across the street," my friend volunteered.

Indeed there were. "They're probably local people," I said. "They might know who is responsible for this terrible travesty."

I parked and walked over, excusing myself for bothering the painters. Then I launched into what I had just seen and asked if they knew anything about it. They looked at each other knowingly. Then they spoke to each other in Spanish and shrugged. I walked back to the car.

We left the island shortly after that, but all the way back to East Hampton I could not stop talking about what had been done to the Ram's Head Inn. From that day on, whenever I talked to someone whom I thought might be familiar with the Ram's Head, I would tell them about it.

"And the Town must have actually APPROVED this," I'd say. "Can you imagine?"

"Maybe it was some real estate deal. Something shady," one person told me.

"Maybe the whole building was just too old," another person told me. "Beyond repair."

"It was NOT beyond repair," I said. "This building had to be on the Historic Register. They've torn down one of the great treasures of the East End."

Somebody else told me perhaps the Inn was not making money. I thought about it. They only had seventeen rooms. It was an old fashioned place. Must have cost a lot to keep up. And of course, with Shelter Island being a summer resort, they had to make whatever they could make in only six months.

I decided to write an article about this for the paper. This was a terrible scandal. The loss of an Island's heritage. An environmental disaster. And perhaps the beginning of the downfall of the Shelter Island Town Supervisor. What a disaster. This is what newspapers are for.

I wanted some detail about the Ram's Head Inn. I called the Shelter Island Historical Society, and they sent some stuff over by fax.

The Inn was built in 1929 by Mrs. Joan Covey, a woman who, earlier, had run a smaller place called the Hilo Lodge and who loved the hospitality business. Famous people stayed there. In 1947, a conference in quantum electrodynamics was held there, sponsored by the National Academy of Science. Thirty people, including Linus Pauling, Edward Teller and other Nobel Prize winners, attended. An important mathematical paper was expected to come from this conference. But it didn't. Nevertheless it got a lot of national press.

"It is doubtful if there has ever been a conference quite like this one," wrote Stephen White of the New York Herald Tribune. "They roam through the corridors mumbling mathematical equations and eat their meals amid the fury of technical discussions."

The conference came to be known as Shelter Island I. In 1983, another quantum electrodynamics conference was held there. Still, no mathematical paper came from it. But Steven Hawking was there, as were more than 100 astronomers, mathematicians and physicists, including 9 Nobel Prize winners. They called it Shelter Island II.

A few years before, in 1979, former Governor Hugh Carey, who has a house on Shelter Island, leased the entire place and ran it, with his family, for the summer. The following year it was sold to the Ecklunds, who also own the Chequit Inn, and who continue to own it today.

I didn't find the time to write my article for about a week. But I kept talking about what a shame this was.

"It's so hard to imagine," somebody said. "I was there just last year."

Then somebody told me, "I was just there last month."

I found this hard to believe. How could they have torn down the Ram's Head and built four homes on the site in just one month?

We have several people from Shelter Island who work with us at the office. I hadn't mentioned the matter of the Ram's Head to them because I figured they knew about it. Now I began asking around. The next part of this article is very embarrassing.

"The Ram's Head Inn had an ad in the paper last week," I was told.

It is a big paper. I don't look at everything. There it was. How could this be?

There was somebody on the island I knew would know the truth. The police. I called the Town of Shelter Island Police Department, and I told the dispatcher there the whole story.

"It's a common mistake," the dispatch lady said.

"What is?" I asked.

"You go out the causeway and think it is right there on the right."

"I know it was right there on the right. I passed the osprey tower. I got to Ram Island. There were the boats out front. The hill with the lawn mowed."

"You got to LITTLE Ram Island."

"There's only one Ram Island."

"You got to LITTLE Ram Island. You had to keep going. There is another causeway to BIG Ram Island, also with an osprey tower. And THAT'S where the Ram's Head Inn is. We get calls all the time."

This is so embarrassing. Now you know why I wanted you to read this article all the way to the end. •

Fly The Flag High

How AT&T And Water Mill Can Work Together For A Great Vista

By Dan Rattiner

Bill McGintee, who is running an independent campaign for East Hampton Town Supervisor, is my kind of guy. He had this to say about towns having "studies."

"When you hire an outside 'consultant,'" he said, "you find out what anyone at Dressen's already knows." Dreesen's, for those outside East Hampton, is the village deli/hangout.

"The town spends tens of thousands of dollars," he continued. "Then if the study doesn't agree with what the politicians wanted it to say, they disregard the recommendations anyway."

Entire careers have been made, families raised and children sent off to college on the money paid to the principals of just such professional study companies.

Last week in this paper, I lamented the fact that Sag Harbor Village has ordered still another study on what to do about their traffic problems. They are spending $15,000 for the study, which, they say, is a lot cheaper than some other firm that said they would do it for $30,000. In my article, I offered to do this study for fifty cents. I even told them my recommendations before they sent the money.

Now there comes still another study. This one, authorized by East Hampton Town, had the firm of Dodson Associates answer the question, "What do people think is an attractive vista or view? A scenic water view or a traffic jam of cars on Main Street?"

People like vistas with water views. They do not like vistas that include traffic jams. Who knew?

In fact, this study was authorized two years ago because the State of New York was considering providing funds for "vista" preservation, and the way I heard about it is that the results of the study, after these two years of work, have just come in. People like vistas with water views. They do not like vistas that include traffic jams. Who knew?

I shudder to think what this study has cost all us taxpayers.

There are other things the report says people like and don't like. Dodson Associates employees printed up dozens of pictures of different vistas, then showed them all around to random citizens on the streets. One of the vistas was of woods and a stream. Another one, a vista with a water tower and big cablevision tower sticking up out of it. Dodson Associates made these pictures up from vistas all over town. They asked people what they thought of recent real estate developments on ocean bluffs as opposed to beach grass and trees on ocean bluffs.

Anyway, I got to thinking about all this as it related to a proposal made last year by AT&T Wireless. AT&T Wireless needs to have more communications towers in the area, so there aren't so many cell phone dead spots. AT&T had gone to a community group in Water Mill and made an offer that I thought Water Mill would immediately accept, but didn't. To this day, I do not know why they didn't.

On the town green in Water Mill there is the beautiful old shingled English windmill, a giant grinding stone, some benches, a war memorial and a twenty-five foot flagpole with an American flag on top. The flagpole is in need of repair.

AT&T offered to put up, free of charge, a brand new flagpole made of steel painted white, hollow in the center, into which they could install a communications wire. The only difference from the present flagpole was that it would be thirty-feet high rather than twenty-feet high. From the outside, it would look exactly the same as it did before, just grander. It would have an American flag on the top. No one would ever know there was some sort of communications wire running up inside.

Let's get back to the Dodson study for a moment. What is a better vista, a town green with a thirty-foot flagpole with an American flag on the top? Or woods with a thirty-foot communications tower sticking up? How about a town with church steeples and three thirty-foot flagpoles with American flags on the top versus a town with church steeples and three communications towers?

I think there are all sorts of wonderful ways for business necessities and historical landmarks to work together if anyone were to take the time to look into it instead of handing it off to a report expected to be presented two years down the line.

This completes a sixty-minute community study I have just done inside my head. I will send my bill, the standard fifty cents, to town hall. Net thirty days. Cash only. No checks please. •

Bat Attack

We Should Use Every Weapon At Our Command For This War

By Dan Rattiner

I think I have come up with a very good way to smoke Osama bin Laden out of his cave. It came to me after I read an article my daughter Maya directed me to on page 18 of the front section of last Sunday's New York Times.

"You could have written this," she said. "The thing is, though, it's true. And it is happening right here." Maya lives in San Francisco.

On page 18 is this story about a thousand sheep in Oakland, California. They are bringing these sheep in by truck from all over the state because this month, October, is wildfire month in northern California. It is, particularly, a problem in the east bay area of San Francisco where, because of the geography of the bay and the mountains, the wind whips in, comes down the hillsides through all the trees and undergrowth during October — October is a dry month, not much rain — and even a spark from a car engine that has overheated or a hot coal from an outdoor barbecue out back of one of the big homes there can send a raging storm of fire crackling through Berkeley and Oakland. One such firestorm killed 31 people and destroyed almost 400 homes in 1992.

Bin Laden will be there, saying something into his microphone, swatting at the bats in his beard...

Anyway, what the governor has done this week is brought in thousands of sheep from all over who are munching and nibbling their way through all the undergrowth to thin it out so if a fire starts, it will quickly go out before it can cause any damage.

The sheep bleat happily as they eat. "Why didn't anybody think of this before," one San Francisco executive, sitting out by his pool, told a reporter.

No, sheep are not going to smoke Osama bin Laden out of his cave in Afghanistan. But bats will.

The way I see it, bombing the mountains of Afghanistan is not going to get us anywhere. We can send in commandos with flame throwers to try to burn him out. But the caves go into the mountains for miles. And we can try sealing up all the caves by firing missiles just above the openings so that landslides of boulders come down and make going in and out difficult. But surely there are tens of thousands of cave entrances, many of them hidden from our aircraft.

If we can gather up all the sheep in California, surely we can gather up all the bats in California and the other 49 states. Gather them up, ship them across the ocean in C-47 transport planes and let them loose on a bright, sunny morning when all they want to do is find a dark place to get some sleep. It will be all over in a week. Bin Laden will be in there, trying to say something into his microphone, perhaps about how finally he will be able to avenge his followers for the evil done to them during the third crusade in 1548, and he'll be swatting at the bats in his beard and under his turban and it just won't be going over very well with the video people.

In particular, I think, it won't go over well with such people as Isanu Dyson of Portland, Maine, who until three years ago was a normal American college student. Three years ago, Dyson discovered Islam.

The New York Post wrote about him on Monday, just a day after the Times did Oakland and the sheep. They ran his story front page. The headline was TRAITOR.

Dyson wears a white blouse, white pantaloons with boots and has on his belt a small dagger, a sword and some worry beads. He's a dashing figure, well, a dashing figure with horn rimmed glasses, and he says he would like nothing better than to run off to Afghanistan, enlist with the Taliban and fight the American soldiers.

"I would consider it more noble for me to go and get myself out of the country, renounce my citizenship, end up in Afghanistan, pick up a gun and fight alongside everyone else against the enemy," he said. "I pray when the day comes that I am called upon to fight that Allah doesn't make me a coward, that I don't run away from the fight."

The reporter from the Post, John Lehmann, probed Dyson about the parts of the Koran that say Muslims must refrain from killing innocent civilians.

Dyson agreed, but he said it would be all right to fly an airplane into the Pentagon, if the airplane were empty, because those working in the Pentagon, though civilians, were government workers and they were supporting American government policy.

It seemed to me the Post really stretched to find and interview this misguided young man. He obviously sees the whole thing as a romantic crusade, with Arabs on white horses swishing their swords back and forth as they race at full gallop across the Sahara.

Dyson would surely feel differently if bin Laden were reduced to swiping at bats, hitting them with rolled up newspapers and so forth. Perhaps the New York Post. A lot of fundamentalist Muslims, I think, would feel differently if they saw that.

In general, I think, President Bush is handling himself magnificently in this very serious world crisis. We have a religious madman on our hands, one whose goal is to kill everybody who does not agree with him. Sending in the army to find him and get rid of him is good. I'm not so sure about the value of dropping parachute loads of roast beef sandwiches near enough for him to get at them. Bats are better. Besides everything else, they carry rabies. This just might be the straw that breaks the camel's back. You never know. •

Crumbling pier in Montauk that will be rebuilt as part of park restoration

Navy Road

Old Montauk Seaplane Base Could Became A New Waterfront Playground

By Joshua May

Hugging the northwest shore of Fort Pond Bay in Montauk are the decaying remnants of a World War II naval base. The area is little more than woods, concrete slab, loose gravel and a decrepit pier that is doing its best to meet the bottom of the bay. But the spot is idyllic and quite beautiful, so the recent proposal by Town Supervisor Jay Schneiderman to turn the area into a recreation area has met with approval in the community. An agreement has been reached to purchase twenty-three acres from current owner William Tintle Jr. for $6.7 million. It is hoped that from the rubble of the past will rise a playground for tomorrow.

Fishermenp from Nova Scotia first settled the area in 1905, forming a town of 150 buildings on railroad property that came to be known as Montauk Village. Nature exercised her property rights in 1938 when a hurricane destroyed the village and, as rebuilding was underway, World War II reached critical mass.

Because the village was next to the railroad terminus, the Navy condemned the property and constructed airplane hangars and a concrete launch ramp designed to accommodate seaplanes and serve the torpedo-testing site on the south shore of Fort Pond Bay. Torpedoes would be shipped from up-island, tested with dummy payloads and those that passed would be shipped back, armed and deployed.

Although no ocean liners or cross-sound ferries have anchored in the bay, it has, on a few occasions, sheltered naval ships. Following the Spanish-American War, troops who had been stationed in Cuba (Teddy Roosevelt among them), were brought by steamship to the bay to be quarantined to ensure that the American population was not exposed to any tropical diseases. More than sixty years later, nuclear submarines used the bay during the Vietnam War. The old base, however, had been abandoned after World War II and despite proposals to transform the area, nothing has come to fruition.

Town Supervisor Jay Schneiderman has a grand vision for the area... water and land activities will be included.

Though it is private property, the area is currently used by sunbathers and swimmers who trek down the concrete-slab road to the water. The land, which most recently was used as a sandlot, is being re-contoured to accommodate thirteen houses that are being built and the proposed recreation area should mesh nicely with the development.

Town Supervisor Jay Schneiderman has a grand vision for the area in which both land and water activities will be equally represented. A kayak and canoe launch area will border a swimming area with an offshore float. The old pier will get a new lease on life and provide preview: master class with roger ebert at film festival

By Bill Boylan

So...You want to be a film critic? Well, you better do your homework and get your thumbs ready. Roger Ebert certainly has. The world-renowned film critic is presenting his Master Class on arguably the greatest film of all time, Citizen Kane, at this week's Hamptons International Film Festival.

Films generally tell stories in sequence, from beginning to end. Citizen Kane starts out with a newsreel of the lead character's life & death! Welles deftly used flashbacks and flashforwards, montages and voice-overs to tell the story of Charles Foster Kane, based loosely on the life of William Randolph Hearst, a newspaper magnate who fought fiercely to prevent the release of the film in 1941. The film was a commercial failure at the time and won only one Academy Award – for Best Screenplay – out of ten nominations. But in 1998, the American Film Institute voted Citizen Kane the Top American film.

In 1991, film directors Martin Scorsese, John Frankenheimer, Brian De Palma and others, issued a 50th Anniversary VHS Tape with comments at the end. Robert Wise, the editor of the original film and a director himself, spoke of the camera angles and special effects used by Welles and cinematographer Gregg Toland. Some had been used before but not with as much bravado or ingenuity. Holes were actually cut in the floors to shoot up at the characters to make them appear over-powering and Toland shot down at subservient characters. Many times the speaking characters were in shadow and/or silhouette with light glaring from behind. Darkness and shadow fill many scenes of this black & white masterpiece.

Warner Brothers has recently released a newly remastered DVD of Citizen Kane including commentary tracks by Ebert and director Peter Bogdanovich. The HIFF Master Class will be hosted by Mr. Ebert during three separate screenings; Fri at 3p.m., Sat at 1p.m. and Sun at 10a.m. at U.A. Cinema #6, East Hampton, NY.

On Saturday, Mr. Ebert will be signing the new DVD- Citizen Kane and his book, Roger Ebert's Movie Yearbook, 2002, at BookHampton 20 E. Main, East Hampton at 10:45 a.m.

In a phone conversation, Mr. Ebert said Citizen Kane was his favorite movie of all time for a number of reasons. "Well, it's entertaining, alive, intelligent, witty and has a sardonic edge to it. Cinematographer Gregg Toland & Welles developed breakthrough technology, innovative camera angles and special effects for the film. Also, it's about newspapers and I'm primarily a newspaper man.

"Orson Welles, the boy wonder of radio & stage, was given freedom by RKO Pictures to make any picture he wanted. Collaborating with Herman Mankiewicz on the screenplay, Welles assembled his colleagues from the Mercury Theater of the Air in NY, including Joseph Cotten, Dorothy Comingore, Everett Sloan, Ray Collins and Agnes Moorehead. First time director & producer Welles and his cast & crew were like kids taking over a candy store!"

Come and celebrate the 60th anniversary of the release of Citizen Kane. Meet and critique along with Roger Ebert. I'm giving it a "TWO THUMBS UP!" ●

The Sheltered Islander By Sally Flynn

Observations of an Islander # 175
Sugar Plums Will Dance in Your Head

Did you get paid last Friday? Me too. I know how everyone hates the way that stores rush the holidays. All the stores have a Santa's Toy Shoppe up and running already. I always hated seeing Christmas decorations before Thanksgiving. However as I looked at my paycheck last Friday, I had an epiphany. After that check... Christmas is now FOUR paychecks away!

Four paychecks from now... I had to sit in my chair and give myself CPR. When did this all happen? Who jammed the holidays so close together? I need at least six more paychecks between me and Christmas, four to live on and two for Toys R Us/ Checks R You. Hey! Toys R Us needs that money. How else can they monopolize the toy market unless I cooperate? They are opening a huge new toy store in Times Square to upgrade their image and make it appear as if they are comparable with FAO Schwartz and that takes Money. My money, to be exact. I feel as if I am letting the economy down.

After the WTC 9/11 tragedy we are all going to need a very special Christmas this year. One with an extra dose of love for the people we have lost, joy in the ones we have here with us now and fun for the child in all of us.

There is no option. The path is clear. Everyone on Island is going to have to reserve their mid-November paycheck. We're going to have to do a big off-Island run to Christmas shop in New York City. We'll rent those Sunrise buses and go into New York to hug the workers at Ground Hero and then help restore New York's economy! I'm calling the operation, Project Sugar Plum.

The Island has about 2000 year round residents, and everyone will be on the buses. We don't want to overwhelm any one store and we do want to spread the money around. We'll need a plan.. we will strike at dawn...

First, child care. We put all the children on Ram Island for the day and install a temporary gate across Ram Island Drive so they can't get out. In case any of them attempt a water escape, we'll have some parents in patrols boats circling the area.

Next, all the grown-ups not assigned to child scare, I mean, childcare, will get on the buses and head west.

The Moms will all be on one bus. The trip time will be used to organize and prepare time-honored shopping tactics in the toy stores. Each Mom will have a heavy purse containing: wallet, small package tissues for any sentimental moments, Advil, Tylenol, aspirin, Imodium, Midol, Tums, a list of everyone's sizes on a 3x5 index card, snacks , a drink, and most importantly, a fine line red marker.

The Mom bus will park at the front entrance of the toy store. The store will be taken on a full frontal assault style. The runner Moms will wait by the cash registers. Once a purchase has been made, the Mom will hide the receipt in her bag, whip out her fine line red marker, strike a line through the actual price and mark it down by at least 10% in red. She will then restore the gift to its store bag and give it to the runner Mom who will run it to the door.

The Dad bus will follow the Mom bus and the Dads will set up a gift brigade by forming a line from the toy store door into the street, then to the parking lot and directly into the designated gift-wrapping bus. As the gifts travel down the line, the Dads will look at the price tags and seeing the marked down prices, they will be amazed at the bargains their fantastic Island women are ferreting out in those huge stores.

The Grandparent bus will be at the end of the gift brigade line and the capable Grandmothers of Shelter Island, whose hands contain years and years of gift wrapping experience, will wrap all the gifts and hand them out the back of the bus to the Grandfathers who will argue and obsess on the most efficient method of stacking the gifts on the official Gift Bus. Several Grandfathers will stand guard around said gift bus armed with large pool noodles to keep onlookers at bay.

It is a brilliant plan, and it will work.

After the mission is accomplished, it will be necessary to grant liberty to the troops. All parents and grandparents will proceed to have dinner at a nice restaurant and see a Broadway show.

By 6 p.m., everybody gets back on the buses. By 8 p.m. we are at the McDonald's in Riverhead picking up 600 Happy Meals.

9 p.m., we are back on Island. All parents will proceed to Ram Island. Everyone must take as many children as they left there that morning. It won't be necessary to have the exact right children. Just give them a happy meal, put them in the car and get them in bed and get them to school in the morning.

Operation Sugar Plum will be a delicate mission. But Manhattan is a fellow Island afterall, and islanders always help each other...

While we live with short-term memories of September 11, and fear for terrorist attacks in the future, New Yorkers are not neglecting the city's rich cultural past, as was evidenced by the installation of a cultural medal at 4 East 10th Street, honoring novelist Dawn Powell, who lived there. The colorful ceremony, led by Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel, chairperson of the Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission, featured actress Angelica Houston, adapter of the screenplay for A Time to Be Born, the Dawn Powell novel her husband Robert Graham, sculptor of the FDR Memorial in D. C., and Tim Page, the Pulitzer Prize winning culture critic of the Washington Post and now editor of the new Dawn Powell series.

Legendary cabaret singer/actress Julie Wilson will be celebrating her 77th birthday in East Hampton in conjunction with the screening of "Showbiz is My Life" at Guild Hall on Thursday at 2:30 pm. A champagne reception to celebrate her birthday will be held that evening at the Spot in East Hampton with a special cabaret performance by Natalie Gamsu in her honor. And perhaps she'll sing a song or two.

Sometimes our best kept secrets out here in the Hamptons aren't that much of a secret. John Anton M.D.FACS, who has been discreetly lifting the faces of some very well-known people out here in Southampton and in New York for years was invited to lecture to the faculty at Harvard Medical School on September 19. He shared his thoughts and techniques on his "natural" appearing facelifts and the remarkable short recovery period that his patients experience. Well, if New York Magazine recognized him as one of the best in New York, we would have to agree. Just look at our photo pages in Dan's during the year to see some of his work.

The Farmhouse Restaurant, known for its parties including big events during the Hamptons International Film Festival, is keeping their promotion simple this year. If you are a Film Festival "moviegoer," simply bring a ticket stub or VIP badge to the Farmhouse and receive a free bottle of red or white French wine with dinner. The promotional offer will run through Wednesday, October 24.

Directions to The Ram's Head Inn From Dan's House

Take the winding road north to the sea. Cross the water. Pass several deer and bear right. Go straight for awhile. Pass more deer. You will see water everywhere. Look for two more islands that aren't really islands (but they used to be). When you see them, turn right. One island is bigger than the other. The little one is first. The Ram's Head Inn is on the big one. You can't miss it.

a fishing platform and create a boundary between swimmers and the proposed scuba and snorkeling area, which will feature an underwater trail.

On shore, a bathing beach will border a large open field where the seaplane hangars used to stand. "It'll be a great place to play touch football or frisbee," said Schneiderman. Nearby, there will be picnic tables, a playground and comfort station.

Plenty of parking will be provided for those who are water bound or for those who wish to hike the fantastic trails in the nearby nature preserves. Presently, hikers are forced to park at the overlook or the recycling center, so a new access area is of great benefit.

Access to the area is via a winding road that forms a narrow railroad crossing causing concern among some residents. Schneiderman is confident that the situation can be resolved and he says that fire trucks can navigate the existing road. He said the eastern portion of Navy Road, which is owned by the town and was constructed from concrete-slab by the Navy, is in passable condition.

There is a good deal of work to be done before the recreation area becomes reality, but faced with the area's present state and its potential, it seems the best course to follow is the way forward. A narrow railroad crossing and rough roads shouldn't be the barrier standing in the path of what will surely be a great facility for members of the community. •

THE GILDED AGE REVISITED

East End Hospice held its Fall Benefit of dinner, dance and auction at the historic Masury Ballroom on Moriches Bay. The theme was a return to the Gilded Age where most women wore silver or gold and men wore black. After cocktails, guests went into the ballroom, where Priscilla Ruffin of Hospice told the group how the organization was involved in assisting victims of September 11, by providing bereavement counseling for families of those who perished and agreed to do a bereavement camp over the Christmas holidays for children of the victims. After everyone dried their eyes, the auction of antiques began, run by Richard Grant, who demonstrated such enthusiasm and wit that he has obviously found his second calling. The auction went on until a set of decoupage mirrors were being offered. When Sharon Peterson, who was the "Vanna White" of the event, walked around and showed the mirrors which we noticed had a Dan's Papers theme. We jumped in and David put in the high bid. So we are now the sole owners of a set of Dan's Papers mirrors!
East End Hospice and its benefactors continue to be a wonder, with over $1.3 million raised since Sue Katz and a few of her tennis buddies came up with the idea to help the Hospice.

"USA 911" AT ARTISTS' WOODS

Artist's Woods,a sixteen acre site at 403 Abraham's Path in Amagansett known as the "Birthplace of East Hamptons' Artist Colony" and established by the artist Lucia in 1946, will be hosting a two week exhibit of paintings, sculpture, photographs and digital art focusing on the events of September 11th, called "USA 911". All proceeds form the show will benefit the September 11th Fund, established by the United Way for the families of the victims of the W.T.C. Tragedy. On Saturday Alex Kabbaz, the director of Artists' Woods and grandson of Lucia, hosted an opening reception along with his wife, Joelle Kelly. The show, which provides an opportunity for the East End art community along with students from local schools to show their support, was well attended and generated numerous sales. Open Thursday through Sunday from 1-5PM the exhibit will continue until October 21. It is a great chance for art lovers to buy art and support the September 11th Fund. Get over to Artists' Woods and spend some money, you won't be disappointed.

I LOVE NEW YORK THEATRE

Duffy Square in Manhattan is always crowded but never more so than on September 28th. The casts of every Broadway show along with other New York celebrities packed the area between 46th and 47th Streets on Broadway to film a commercial in support of New York Theatre. The massive crowd sang their version of New York, New York and danced to the choreography of Jerry Mitchell. GOD BLESS AMERICA!!

Autumn Bride

Pamper Yourself On Your Wedding Eve

Tomorrow's the day. Every detail is taken care of. This is the perfect time to concentrate on peace of mind and pampering your skin.

Healthy Relaxation

Eat lightly and healthy-lots of fruits and veggies, but be careful because too much fruit will make you bloated. Drink lots of water, and remember sleep is going to be your best friend.

Calm your nerves before bedtime with a special bath using calming bath salts for pure aromatic pleasure. Bath and Body Works has a wide array of relaxing scents for your bath and skin. Using this type of therapy will lull you into a calming, blissful sleep that is so well needed at this time. Lavender has been a bridal scent since ancient times, and it is known for its soothing properties.

Don't use any face masks or try to do any extractions because you will make a mess of your face. Instead use an AHA/BHA clearing gel.

Other last minute pimple solutions that leave no red or dry spots are the Mario Badescu Drying Gel with calamine and salicylic acid, and Ponds Overnight Blemish Reducers, clear plastic dots that apply salicylic acid to pimples through the night.

Clear Eyes and Fresh Lips:

You'll want your eyes to look like you've never had a bad night's sleep in your life, so this is a good time for eye creams. Ellen Lange's Micro Thera Eye Care hydrates and conditions delicate under-eye skin.

Use a light Glycolic Acid on your lips for a neat way to remove dead skin tissue...it really works!

Soothing Foot Care...Sound Sleep:

You'll be on your feet all day. Prepare them by massaging an exfoliating cream on them...then wear white cotton socks to bed. There are so many beautiful preparations that contain peppermint that will soothe and soften at the same time. Caswell-Massey's Freesia Body Lotion will double as a relaxing cream for your feet as well as your body. Massage in slowly and reap the benefits the next morning.

Listening to a mood inducing CD before bed rather than reading may be the ticket to a calm sleep as well. The sound of ocean waves has the most beneficial effect of the mood tapes. Put it on low and surround yourself with beautiful fragrance...dim the lights and have the switch within easy reach.

Before you know it...it will be "THE BIG DAY" and you will radiate with all the pampering you have given yourself the night before. Enjoy your day!

Romance Is In The Hair

By Annette Garkowski-Gunnels

Ever since the Titanic sailed across the movie screens a few years ago, there has been a surge of romantic hairstyles for the bride. Whether it be worn down in a soft cascade of waves and curls or up in a French twist or a downright unkempt messy up-do, the look has been pointing to a timeless feeling.

The "undone" up-dos and buns were very hot on the 2000 bridal scene. They were changed to be a little bigger and a little more creative, but remained hot for 2001. Why? The look is so incredibly versatile that it can be designed to be up-to-the-minute in style. It is also easy. What could be more fun than making a mess?

Mess up-dos, buns and twists are also wonderfully soft and pretty and can be customized with hair jewels, hair sticks, ribbons, flowers, and of course your headpiece. A good rule of thumb is if your gown is glamorous, follow suit with your hair. If it is more traditional, your hair should take its cue from the look. All the designs for hair can be altered to flatter both you and your gown.

For creating an up-do, you can practice yourself a few weeks before your wedding or get in to your stylist with several different views of the style you are wishing to attain. But try to do it on your own; it will not only be easy then for you to attend to yourself on your special day, it will also be great to 'stick' up if it has been down a good portion of the day.

You will need the following hair tools:

1. Bobby pins to match your hair color.
2. A hair-dryer that has a diffuser attachment.
3. Hair gel or mousse. A gel-mousse product would be ideal.
4. A good comb and brush.
5. "Hair Friendly" elastic bands to match your hair color.
6. Hair jewelry, flowers, headpiece or other desired adornments.
7. Shaping/styling spray product.
8. Shine Product

Step1: Carefully brush or comb your hair to remove all knots or tangles. Apply a dollop of gel or mousse from the palms of your hands to your hair. Comb completely through. Your hair should be slightly damp from the gel mousse that you apply.

If you need extra fullness for your style, concentrate volume enhancing gel/mousse at the roots.

Step 2: Using a comb carefully divide your hair into 6-8 equal sized sections. Separate each section, twist carefully into a tight knot and clip to hold the hair in place.

Note: You can experiment with more or less sections to get different looks.

Step 3: Attach the diffuser to the hair dryer and then blow dry your hair until it is completely dry. The amount of time you dry your hair will depend on the length and thickness of your hair. Make sure your hair is completely dry before you finish.

Step 4: Let your hair cool completely. Carefully undo the clips holding the hair twists in place.

Step 5: Using your fingers carefully ruffle your hair to get a messy full look. To add more volume your can bend over at the waist and carefully finger pick your hair.

Step 6: Carefully brush your hair back to form a soft ponytail that is very high at the crown of your head. Before attaching an elastic band, pull two hair strands loose on either side of your face.

Step 7: Attach an elastic band to the ponytail hair. Make sure that the ponytail rests high on the crown so you can wrap it into a bun.

Step 8: Take the ponytail and loosely wrap into a soft bun turning the hair clockwise. Once you have the shape that you like carefully pin the bun securely into place.

Step 9: Take the loose hair on either side of your face and twist softly into loose knots. Pin the knots up around the ponytail. Or you can leave the strands to hang freely.

Note: Remember the creation of any updo style often requires some practice. As each style is created pay attention to areas of difficulty that you can refine and simplify. Remember practice makes perfect.

Step 10: Using the tail of a rattail comb or your fingers, carefully pull strands of hair loose from around the bun until you have the messy look you desire. If the strands are long you can lightly backcomb them and pin them softly into random looks around your crown.

Step 11: When you have the style the way you want it and right before you have added your headpiece or accessories, spray with a good setting product to hold your style.

Whatever hairstyle you choose, make sure you work it out several times on your own or do a dry run at your hairdresser's. See if it can hold up for an entire day. An easy to do twist or updo will be a welcomed lifesaver in the long run. And above all, relax and enjoy!

Pirates on the loose

S.O.S.

50 Nuts, 12 Boats, 10 Decks Of Cards And Lots Of Beer

By Joshua May

Just sit right back,
And you'll hear the tale,
The tale of a fateful trip,
That started in this East End Port,
Aboard a dozen ships.
The mates were mighty drinking friends,
The skippers too for sure,
Fifty passengers set sail that day,
For a five-bar tour,
A five-bar tour.

Around noon on Sunday, an intrepid band of drinkers cum-do-gooders, clad in brightly-colored waterproof jackets, assembled at the new floating dock near the stone pier in Sag Harbor. A light mist and gray skies did nothing to dampen the spirits of the fifty-odd folks who had come to participate in the Sag Harbor Hysterical Society's Annual Maritime Poker Run.

Charlie Canavan, president and founder – and technically, the only member of the society – had masterminded a program for the day that would take us to five waterfront restaurants (two on the North Fork). For forty dollars you picked two cards out of a bag at the beginning of the day and at each restaurant you would choose another card with the hope that by the end of the day you would have a winning hand.

The pack of latter-day pirates milled about, mimosas and bloody marys in hand, until Charlie rallied the ragged bunch together to give his opening speech. After thanking everyone for showing up despite the weather – which provoked Elise from Florida's encouraging shout to "Drink it sunny" – he got to the heart of the matter and explained why everyone was there.

Lynn Caniglia & Captain Canavan

"Carol Jones lost her husband Arthur, whose family is from the East End, in the World Trade Center tragedy and she and her three kids, with another on the way, are in a bind and need some help. So this is what the Sag Harbor Hysterical Society does and we're all here today to raise some money for her and do what we can."

It was a sober undertone for what would be a drunken day, but Charlie got everyone going with his, "Top Ten Lame Reasons Not to Attend," the highlights of which were: I don't know how to play poker. I can't eat that much. I can't drink that much. I was afraid I'd blow chunks on the boat. Chunks is my dog.

With a queen of hearts and a five of diamonds in hand, fog horns blared and engines roared as I climbed aboard Charlie's thirty-foot Sea Ray Pilot Error, a reference to his career as an airline pilot, and I hoped not a commentary on his driving abilities. My fellow shipmates were Frank and Lynn Caniglia, Jim Zahuski and Peter (manager of "Some Hotel") Dunlap. The fog that had been hanging over the bay all morning had begun to clear though it would soon be replaced by a fog of an entirely different sort.

I asked Peter how often they do things like this and his reply set the tone for the day. "What things like this?

About three-times a week, but not with as many people." I would receive few straight answers and fewer real names.

The twenty-minute ride to the first restaurant, Orient by the Sea, was full of colorful, and off-color, banter and Charlie's astute observation summed up the trip. "Nothing tastes better after a spicy bloody mary than a cold beer." Oranges were squeezed for mimosas and Smilin' Dave gave us a two-cheek salute as we passed the boat he was in.

Docking procedures in Orient were difficult and I hoped that the route had been planned to account for increased alcohol consumption and diminished driving skills later in the day. Our slip was marked with a dried and grizzled, filleted-fluke that was nailed to a post about ten-feet above the water. Lynn, who took the prize for best boat shoes for her five-inch platforms, put our curiosity to rest by explaining, "It probably got stuck there at high tide."

Inside the bar, the drinks were flowing freely as Dracula guarded the cash register and stuffed fish on the walls looked on jealously. Most people didn't seem to pay too much attention to the decor.

The folks at Orient by the Sea had laid out a great spread for the Poker Runners. There were potato skins, fried clams, little bow tie rollups and pirogues. With my mouth full, cardmaster Liz (F.T.G.) came by and demanded I draw my next card – a five of hearts.

The schedule, which had seemed to provide ample time in each spot, translated to the downing of a few drinks and the stuffing of one's face before moving on to the next spot. Our departure was marked by the repeated question, "How many bars left?" As we pulled out of our slip the crew aboard Charlie's boat struck up a new and impromptu sea shanty, "Docking Mimosa." (Docking mimosa/Docking mimosa/You'll come a docking/ Mimosa with me.)

We arrived at the Chequit Inn on Shelter Island just in time to get caught in the pile up in front of the food and see the Giants kick a field goal. Carol told me about her dog Chinko whom she had lost and then found. I met Steve, who may or may not be an East End educator and Chris, who leads a rough life as a sailboat captain, summering in the Hamptons and wintering in the Caribbean. They had the smallest boat in the fleet, a seventeen-footer, but what they lacked in size they made up for in speed. With my next draw, Liz showed me no love – a nine of spades. I decided Charlie wasn't lucky anymore so I cast my fortunes with Steve and Chris for the run to the Seafood Barge.

Hands down, the Seafood Barge in Southold won for best spot of the day. The crew, with a half-in-the-bag swagger, entered the restaurant to the sweet smell of good food and the sight of a magnificent spread: mussels, Buffalo wings that were just spicy enough and thick cut potatoes with just a touch of cheese. Plus, the beers were cheap and there were two TVs, one with the Yankees game on and the other with the Giants game on.

No one wanted to leave, especially the crew of Velocity, an aptly named cigarette boat. Among the crew were Peter and Scott Jones, Arthur's brothers, and they invited me to join them for the next run. This proved to be a brilliant strategic move because they could leave twenty minutes after everyone else and still arrive before the slowest boats made it to the next restaurant. The plan was to catch the bottom of the inning of the Yankee's game and then head out. This took longer than expected though the time was well spent drinking and scrounging for any leftovers. I pulled a three of clubs.

It was a bittersweet out that ended the inning, but we were farther behind than expected so we made a quick dash for the exit. The throaty growl of the 500-horsepower engine marked our departure and as we were pulling away from the dock our navigator, Alan/Joe/Bob informed me that the power steering had gone out on the boat and we would have to help steer the boat by leaning into turns. I'd always looked at cigarette boats as noisy intrusions on the otherwise peaceful water but when we hit seventy a half-mile from the dock my opinion was forever changed.

The rest of the day was a bit of blur. I remember pulling another queen and drinking a stiff margarita. Sean Scanlon, incorrigible cheater that he is, had eleven aces, six kings, and a pair of queens – no one really cared. Well after the sun had set, we arrived at La Superica in Sag Harbor and Nancy Atlas started playing. With my stomach full, my wallet empty and a notebook full of indecipherable scribbles, I stumbled home to write the story.

Dan's North Fork

Dining On The North Fork: Critic's Choice

Bay & Main. Set back from the street in a Stirling Square 19th century carriage house, this newcomer is fast becoming a restaurant for East Enders to plan their evenings around. OwnerCathleen MacCarthy and chef Chris Patteson, ex- of Bistro Blue, have fashioned a very warm and welcoming place with a menu of unending delights. Crabcakes with jicamo coleslaw and cilantro remoulade display the chef's knack of turning the ordinary into something exceptional. Inventive martinis and margaritas. Entrees $15-$24. 300 Main Street, Greenport. (Bradbrook, 7/6/01).

Coeur des Vignes. Outstanding classic French cuisine in a charming timber-beamed house of relaxed elegance. Chef Ari Pavlou's foie gras with papaya, peppercorns, pomegranate and peach schnapps recently honored by Sante magazine's cooking with spirits competition. Perennial Wine Spectator Award of Excellence winner. Escargots cooked in parsley, garlic butter and white wine sauce tops the list of timeless favorites. Fish specialties frequently fresh from the boat — theirs. Excellent game dishes have similarly acquired. Prix fixe dinners provide excellent value. Entrees $18-$31. (Bradbrook).

Ile de Beaute. Returning to this restaurant is like returning to France itself. The cooking style is firmly fixed in the Provence region. French onion soup is inspired, one of the best of its kind anywhere. High standard of cooking in dishes like scallops with saffron sauce on a bed of leeks, chicken breast stuffed with lobster meat in champagne sauce, frog legs and baked stuff clams served with a light Provencal sauce. Delightful desserts. Wonderful range of crepes. Live music on weekends. Entrees $20-$32. 314 Main Street, Greenport. (Bradbrook, 9/7/01).

Cooperage Inn. Chefs Liamo and Hegeman carry the banner of North Fork cuisine. Freshness of local ingredients evident in every bite, produce comes from neighboring farmstands. Inspired appetizers, topped by pan-seared fresh mozzarella over spinach with artichoke hearts and plum tomatoes. Homemade dressings enliven fresh salads, notably the house salad of greens, fruits, raisins and nuts. Superb steaks and pastas. Rigatoni ala vodka with pancetta, basil and sage, particularly noteworthy. Cornmeal encrusted Atlantic salmon attains a very high level. Excellent values include grilled double pork chops atop wild mushroom herb stuffing. Owner Jonathan Perkins' stylish country restaurant is a North Fork gem. Entrees $14-$30. Sound Ave. Baiting Hollow. (Simm, 6/29/01).

Do Little's. Very welcoming and unprentious. An excellent menu for diners interested in fresh, smartly prepared dishes that are not calorically trumped up. Thai mussels in ginger/lemongrass broth hit the mark. Excellent pasta dishes, headlined by justifiably famous Seafood Pasta in white wine sauce, filled with mussels, clams and shrimp over linguine with fresh tomatoes and spinach. Stuffed ravioli with sun-dried tomatoes and mozzarella is beautifully done. Sensibly priced wine list, with a knowing nod to local vintages. Entrees, $12.95-$19.95. Rt. 25, Mattituck Plaza, Mattituck. (Bradbrook, 7/28/01).

La Plage. Obscure geography, sensational cuisine. This sums up owner chef Wayne Wadington's destination restaurant on Long Island Sound, north of the tiny village of Wading River. No expense spared in the acquisition of top ingredients, local or otherwise. Complex recipes spell highly creative fusion cuisine: New American in heart, French in spirit. Many highlights include: Chilled lobster soup garnished with roe; salad of tart apples with bleu cheese, walnuts and mache; rare yellowfin tuna with homemade potato chips; caramelized jumbo sea scallops with snow crab fritter. Desserts are imaginative and exceptionally well executed. Entrees $17-$28. (Bradbrook, 8/4/00.)

Modern Snack Bar. Family owned and operated since 1950, by the Wittmeier family. Don't expect virtuousity, that's not the point. Kitchen delivers plate after plate of likeable, unpretentious dishes. Old stand-bys are given casually perfect preparation. Of particular note, sauerbraten with red cabbage and potato dumplings, soft-shelled jumbo crabs and stuffed Long Island duckling. Snack Bar is all about comfort food that is capable of disarming the sophisticated foodie. Two menu items are flat-out remarkable: the adroitly concocted lobster salad is a delight in every bite, while mashed turnips prove irresistible. Route 25, Aquebogue. (Ballot, 5/1/98.)

Touch of Venice. Simplicity, freshness, flavor are the hallmarks here. Named appropriately for cuisine, location on the banks of Mattituck Inlet and an intricate wall mural dominating the dining room. Proprietor Ettore Pennach shares the cooking with son Brian. Among kitchen's highlights: Stuffed artichoke, eggplant Sorrentino, filet mignon au jus, with garlic and mushrooms. Lobster Meat, a frequent special, is an exciting dish of imaginative complexity. It combines chunks of lobster on a bed of al dente spaghetti with fresh seasonal vegetables topped with basil oil and lemon juice. Entrees $12-$21. Wickham Ave., Mattituck. (Bradbrook, 8/4/00).

Ross' Rotisserie and Smokehouse. A casual, homey eat-in or take-out spot opened by John Ross, formerly of Ross' North Fork Restaurant, five years ago. Great rotisserie chickens, Long Island duck (call day before), hickory smoked ribs and fabulous side dishes. Try the pumpkin chardonnay soup, John's chili or chicken croquettes. Feed yourself or a crowd from the accommodating menu. Special fish fry for only $5.49 every Friday. If dining here, bring your own wine and John will provide glasses. Open 7 days. North Road, Southold. (Simm, 10/5/01).

Springtime In Paris, Fall In Cutchogue

By David Szczepankowski

Ah, the high season. Springtime in Paris, the Caribbean in winter. On the East End, there are two high seasons. In the Hamptons, high season runs from about Memorial Day to Labor Day. Everybody who is anybody is out and about going to benefit parties, the beach or just getting away from their worries. On the North Fork, though, the high season is now!

Don't get me wrong, there is lots to do during the summer on the North Fork, but this time of year is when the North Fork really shines. Farmstands are full of fresh fall vegetables including acorn and butternut squash and, of course, broccoli, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts. But what really separates this time of year on the North Fork from other places is that there is simply so much to see and do.

Since the wine industry on eastern Long Island was born in Cutchogue in the late 1970s, there has been a slow, but steady transition from potato fields to vineyards. Lately, that transition has increased considerably. Have you driven on the North Fork lately? What once seemed like a quaint and picturesque jaunt now feels more like a drive through the Rhine Valley. The best part about this is that there are good and sometimes great wines available, for tasting and purchase. And if you are interested, virtually all the wineries offer a tour of their premises and will show you how they make the wine that you can enjoy with dinner that night. Additionally, some of the wineries also have events scheduled in their tasting rooms so that you can go to your favorite winery, listen to music or view an art exhibit while nibbling on tidbits and sipping a glass of the latest vintage.

Fall is the harvest season for the grapes, which means, that you can watch (and maybe actually help) harvest the crop that will make the 2001 vintage. Most of the grapes are harvested by machine, but some of the vineyards harvest certain varieties by hand. So if you take a vineyard tour now, you will get to see wine making in progress; from vine to wine!

While children may not get as much out of a vineyard tour as you do (be careful not to enjoy too much), there are things that the family can do together. A recent addition to the local produce at the farmstands is the corn maze. Standing at least as high, "as an elephant's eye," the maze provides enough twists and turns to keep kids and adults furrowing for hours. Some mazes have viewing towers so the lost adventurer can get a bird's eye view of the course. It's great fun and the kids will be so worn out that, later in the evening, parents can enjoy their purchases of local wine undisturbed.

This is certainly the high season for... pumpkins. There are big pumpkins. There are little pumpkins. There are huge, giant, as big as you can imagine pumpkins. 'Tis the season for jack-o-lanterns, and other Halloween accessories. Cornstalks, hay bales, gourds, and chrysanthemums add autumn color to your porch and yard. They are all available, fresh and locally grown. You can't beat it.

Finally, there is the fall fishing season. Fishing on eastern Long Island is the best this time of year. The weather this fall has been warmer than normal, so the water temperature is still moderate. That means that there are plenty of striped bass, bluefish, blackfish and maybe even some porgies and weakfish to catch. You can go to the beach and surfcast for them, charter a boat with a few friends and go out and catch the really big ones, or enjoy a half day or day trip on one of the local party boats.

Yes, it is indeed the North Fork's high season, and with winter around the bend, carpe diem! Seize the day; get out and experience autumn's splendor.

Prince Edward Island: The Million-Acre Farm

Prince Edward Island or PEI, as some affectionately refer to it, is a place of rich history, beautiful landscape and friendly PEIslanders. Named for Edward Augustus, Duke of Kent and Strathern and son of George III of England, it's the smallest and greenest province of Canada – a crescent-shaped piece of land in the Gulf of St. Lawrence separated from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia by the Northumberland Strait. Its shoreline is notched by estuaries and bays, and the countryside with its fertile, red soil and rolling dunes contrasts with the stunning blue of the sea. The northern side of the island boasts white, sandy beaches while the southern side consists of bluffs and red sandstone.

The island's unusually ruddy soil is responsible for the lovely gardens that grace much of PEI and also for its nicknames of the Million-Acre Farm and the Garden of the Gulf, since 3/4 (nearly one million acres) of its land was once used for farming its chief crop, potatoes. Although not as prominent now as it once was, agriculture is still a major industry on the island and a large proportion of the population still lives in rural areas.

It is scarcely possible to do justice to the landscape of Prince Edward Island, but Lucy Maud Montgomery articulated its beauty best as floating "on the waves of the blue gulf, a green seclusion and haunt of ancient peace...invested with a kind of fairy grace and charm." Montgomery set her famous series of novels about the enthusiastic orphan Anne Shirley on PEI and said of her grandparents' Cavendish home where she grew up and wrote Anne of Green Gables, "It is ever must be hallowed ground to me." Visitors consider it to be so as well and flock to the area known as "Anne's Land" to see the fields, lanes and gardens that remain on the site, although no buildings remain. Cavendish is located on the north coast near Prince Edward Island National Park.

Much of the island's charm lies in its diverse history and culture, and festivals and events such as pow wows and Scottish highland games celebrate the meshing of its many varied traditions. PEI's first inhabitants were the Algonquin speaking Mi'kmaqs who called it Abegweit meaning "Cradled on the Waves." Next came the French in 1534, explorer Jacques Cartier claiming the island for France and in 1603 Samuel de Champlain called it Isle Saint Jean. The British took control in 1745 and then returned it to the French three years later. In 1763, after the French and Indian War, it became part of the British colonies. In the late 1700s hundreds of Roman Catholic Highland Scots migrated to the island. In 1851 Great Britain gave PEI complete control over its domestic affairs.

Since then, islanders have had the opportunity to build their major industries. Along with agriculture, lobster fisheries are a notable business and PEI's Malpeque/ Caraquet oysters and blue mussels are of high quality.

However, tourism is what keeps Prince Edward Island alive and islanders manage to draw visitors not with highly commercialized attractions, but with the island's quaint charm. The island has become more easily accessible to tourists since the construction of The Confederation Bridge linking PEI to the mainland; it was completed a few years ago and is the longest bridge in the world-it takes about twelve minutes to cross it. Ferries are also an option.

Besides simple landscape sightseeing, PEI boasts more golf courses per capita than anywhere else in the world. The Links course at Cowbush Cove is five-star-rated and was in the North American top ten list in Golf Digest.

Pristine beaches, fishing excursions, bird and seal watching, museums, festivals and great B&Bs, Inns and cottages to stay in make Prince Edward Island an appealing escape.

Shop 'til You Drop... With Maria Tennariello

The Montauk Daisies are popping up all over the East End and brings such a feeling of fall, Halloween and holiday shopping. So let's do some shopping shall we?

Sag Harbor was buzzing this weekend and so was Out Of The Closet, a vintage clothing and accessory shop that is tucked neatly on Division Street. Lucy is having an "end of the season sale" with 50% off her already reduced merchandise. She told me that everything must go out the door as she will be making room for an entirely new, knock your socks off, vintage stock. Miss Lucy boasts that she will have killer, best of the best, vintage stock around. Can't you tell she loves what she is doing? If you're a vintage junkie, 'dis is de place' for vintage clothing, glitz and glamour, and a wonderful selection of fun and funky Halloween garb. I'm thinking Midnight Cowgirl; she's got the boots, hats, shirts and black leather chaps... Open Thursday through Monday from 12 noon 'til 8 p.m This shop is a hoot!

Also on Washington Street, a quick look in Svenska where you will enjoy a little walk around the shop and absorb all the Svenska has to offer. There are the most beautiful home furnishings and Scandinavian design merchandise. Looking for the perfect shower or wedding gift? This is the place to find that unique piece that will last a lifetime. Stay tuned on this one. Call 725-3386 for information.

On Main Street at the Romany Kramoris Gallery on Main Street where you would swear you were in fairyland, you will find eclectic and unique gifts and interior specialties. Romany has just gotten in the new Americana Line Stars and Stripes keepsake boxes filled with notebooks, God Bless America sketchbook, journal, and stationery, the beautiful 2002 Italian reproduction calendar and a hand-beaded Iguana from Africa. Look for fabulous stained glass and jewelry too. Love this shop, always did, always will...

A new salon and spa has opened in Bridgehampton and has some holiday specials for you. Gemayel is located in the Bridgehampton Commons and will do a quick fix manicure, pedicure, hair glazing and cut for $190, a stress relief sap manicure, pedicure, full body massage for $170 only to name a few. Check it out!

I found a great interior design and decorating shop in Water Mill. GLS creates environments for living: antique and contemporary, window treatments, upholstery, soft furnishings, lampshades, decorative accessories, artwork, framing, marbleizing, faux finishes and much more. There is a working studio on the premises for custom treatments and alterations by skilled, reliable craftsmen. Located on Deer Ridge Trail, give Gabrielle Schlichting a call at 631-726-5621.

The Southampton Inn on Hill Street is featuring a "Fall Getaway Package" that includes a luxurious room for two at the Southampton Inn for any Saturday evening from September 15 through November 18, continental breakfast for two on Sunday morning, two rental bicycles with helmets for one day and a Saturday morning guided bicycle tour at 10 a.m. Also included are a tour of the Wolffer Estate in Sagaponack and a bottle of Wolffer's La Ferme wine. After the bicycle tour there is a tour of art and antiques and area wineries, and...more. Saturday evening's package is priced at $249 for two. Wish to arrive on Friday? The extra night is priced at only $99; with an option to extend the weekend with late check out on Sunday, adds only $50 to the price. For details and reservations call the Southampton Inn, 800-832-6500.

At the Hampton Nursery on West Montauk Highway in Hampton Bays it's harvest time! For the remainder of October, there is face painting from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, October 27 and 28, for the kids and grown-ups too. Have some fun picking out your favorite pumpkins, cornstalks and Indian corn. Your children will delight in turning into a harvest fun face! This is the best time to plant a tree or two; Hampton Nursery has them arriving weekly along with mulch, fertilizer and grass seed. Enjoy!

At the Village Plaza on W. Main Street in Hampton Bays at Krieg's Bake Shop you will find the most delicious buns, cakes, and my very favorite, jelly donuts. I have to make this stop and pick up at least a dozen jellies to bring my mom on my way to New Jersey. No kidding! Try them, you will love them.

Just steps away at We'll Floor "U," you will be surprised. What a selection you will find here in everything that goes on the floor and much more. My daughter Michele and I stopped in to check out the Pergo flooring and found such a large variety of flooring we were almost confused. Give a look, see what I mean. And...they are very helpful here as well.

Until next week. Ciao and Happy Fall Shopping!

"They Made The Movie Here" Film Festival 2001

North By Northwest

NORTH BY NORTHWEST

The hottest "Hollywood In The Hamptons" news is the return of Dan's Papers "They Made The Movie Here" Film Festival on Saturday October 20th. Our's is the Local, Neighborhood – Friendly Festival. There's no waiting on long lines for tickets because admission is FREE. There are no parking problems as the events are held at the Ross School off Rte. 114 at 18 Goodfriend Drive in East Hampton. The theatre is in the school's ultra, comfortable library, at the also comfortable time of 2 p.m. and refreshments are served.

I, Guy-Jean de Fraumeni, host the show with Sarah Halsey. Dan Rattiner will attend and tell how he came up with the Festival which presents films that take place here or were produced here.

The first film is classic entertainment by the master of the comedy-thriller genre, Alfred Hitchcock.

Only the sly and wicked Alfred Hitchcock would have the very suave star, Cary Grant, do turns: being sloshed to the gills, pursued and roughed up by very bad foreign agents and U.S. Agents and the police, get knocked to the ground by an airplane then a huge oil truck and wind-up crawling up George Washington's nose and sliding down Thomas Jefferson's cheek at Mt. Rushmore, after being abducted in Manhattan and placed in dire jeopardy in the posh Glen Cove area of our ideal, location-studded island.

Location, location, location describes Hitchcock's tour cross-country. . . taking Mr. Grant from Madison Avenue (he's an advertising man), to the Plaza Hotel, to Glen Cove and then by train, bus, stolen vehicles and plane to Chicago, South Dakota and the slippery, stony slopes of the four presidents.

It's all so glamorous... the beautiful blond-without-a-hair-out-of -place, is Eva Marie Saint (outrageously sexy) and, wonderfully bad as the spy ring head is James Mason and, you don't know bad until you've met Martin Landau as Mason's chief henchman. Also starring spectacularly, are screenwriter Ernest Lehman and the always brilliant music of Bernard Herrmann. All of NORTH BY NORTHWEST is First Class Travel... fast, efficient, luxurious and thrilling.

We'll see you Saturday in Technicolor-VistaVision at the Ross School.

Guy de Fraumeni's HOLLYWOOD in The Hamptons

Don't Say A Word, Hearts In Atlantis

AT THEATRES THE SAME OLD SAME OLD: DON'T SAY A WORD

The brain dead-on-arrival, suspense-thriller with messy mass violence, Don't Say A Word! You may enjoy dangling precariously from an uncomfortable, edge-of-the-theatre seat if you don't try to make sense of the carrying on, carried on in this jewel theft / kidnapping / murder / mayhem /1 hour psychiatric cure / 25 cent script of torture, knitting needle impalement and death by being buried alive under an avalanche of dirt and beams. (Not great timing.)

Michael Douglas plays (and, I mean plays) with the role of super nice guy, super dad, super lover, super psychiatrist and extra SUPER Hero who is forced to extract a secret from a demented young woman for the return of his kidnapped little daughter. All this slaughter for a valuable gem . . . which this movie ain't.

THE SAME OLD SAME OLD TEARS: HEARTS IN ATLANTIS

When a movie like Hearts in Atlantis begins with the bequeath of a very old baseball glove, you know you're in for another trip down Nostalgia Lane. You know, a 1940s-50s medley of too shiny vintage cars, clothes that are costumes people didn't wear in those days and dull cliches people never uttered except in flowery books. And, there's a bunch of needle-drop Oldies to make sure you know they're in the past, as if the hazy, golden light and babbling brooks and a babbling old Geezer aren't enough. Not to mention the cute, curly headed boy who learns a big lesson.

The really sad thing about this sad movie is that Anthony Hopkins is the old Geezer.

But don't get me wrong... I love Hollywood.

Dan's Papers "They Made The Movie Here" Film Festival

Free Admission 2 PM
For reservations please call the front desk @ 537-0500

Featuring films that either take place on Long Island or were filmed here.

This festival celebrates Long Island as "Hollywood East" by presenting films that take place here or were produced here.
Screenings will be at the Ross School on Saturdays at 2 p.m. Hosted by Guy-Jean de Fraumeni and Sarah Halsey with special guests. Refreshments will be served. Dan Rattiner, who conceived of the festival, will be there opening day and admission is free.

FILMMAKING ON LONG ISLAND

The Motion Picture industry has indirectly recorded the history of Long Island by utilizing these favored shores of diverse landscapes, beaches and architecture as living backdrops for conjuring up movie magic. Bridgehampton's then still spinning windmills served tiny, big-time star Shirley Temple for her role in The Little Dutch Girl. Rudolph Valentino kicked up the sands of the "Sahara" on dunes in Napeague in The Return of the Sheik. In production, the wild Marx Brothers tore up the Paramount Studios, in Long Island City, in movies like Coconuts.

In the recent past, the mansions of Glen Cove on the island's fabled Gold Coast were featured in both Sabrina movies, of 1954 and 1995 as well as Hitchcock's North by Northwest. East Hampton's own "in-house" director, Sidney Lumet, filmed portions of The Pawn-broker in Middle Island and in the Hamptons.

HERE'S THIS SEASON'S LINE UP:
RETURNING SATURDAYS OCTOBER 20 THROUGH DECEMBER 15

OCTOBER 20 NORTH BY NORTHWEST
Hitchcock's most masterful comedy-suspense thriller has Cary Grant pursued by spies and police, cross country from Glen Cove, the actual location, to Mount Rushmore, a huge studio set.

OCTOBER 27 THE FAN
Lauren Bacall's most controversial film. She portrays a star stalked by a psychotic admirer. The cast includes James Garner and Maureen Stapleton. Featuring Hampton beaches.

NOVEMBER 3 THE DEVIL'S OWN
Alan J. Pakula's edge-of-your- seater. Irish revolutionary Brad Pitt vs. dedicated cop Harrison Ford, in a dynamic, plot clash . . . it utilizes Greenport locations.

NOVEMBER 10 THE WORLD ACCORDING TO GARP
Dizzying journey of a man's life as only Robin Williams can make it. Glenn Close stands out in this dramatic satire. Stops along the way include Roslyn.

NOVEMBER 17 RAGING BULL
The quintessential film of director, Martin Scorsese, and star, Robert De Niro. The prize, prize-fight movie of them all. De Niro and editor, Thelma Schoonmaker received richly deserved Oscars. Many scenes shot in Lido Beach.

NOVEMBER 24 CLOSED FOR THANKSGIVING

DECEMBER 1 SABRINA
Colorful remake of the 1954 Audrey Hepburn Cinderella story of chauffeur's daughter's affairs with the wealthy family's sons. Now, Julia Osmond stars with Harrison Ford. Glen Cove is the place and scenes in Paris are not bad, either.

DECEMBER 8 COMPROMISING POSITIONS
Susan Sarandon is a Long Island housewife turned sleuth, to the dismay of detective, Raul Julia, investigating the murder of a dentist who has had sex with so many of his patients. A bright smiling whodunit.

DECEMBER 15 AGE OF INNOCENCE
A very different Scorsese film adapted from Edith Wharton's novel of 1870s N.Y. society. Daniel Day-Lewis is engaged to scandalously independent Michelle Pfeiffer. Sumptuous settings, costumes and locations in Nassau and Suffolk.

Guy-Jean de Fraumeni is the producer/writer/director of award winning European films and Network TV. He has judged major Film and TV award competitions.

The Ross School Library Theatre 18 Goodfriend Drive (Off Rt. 114) East Hampton, NY

The Hamptons International Film Festival is ongoing in East Hampton, Westhampton Beach and Sag Harbor, and there are several fine entertainers here including flamenco/fusion guitarist Ottmar Liebert and his Luna Negra XL2 band on Friday, and acclaimed Irish tenor Ronan Tynan on Saturday. The Baltimore Consort gives an early-music concert on Friday and Bay Street Theatre has three new-play readings over the weekend. Dan's Papers' weekly series "They Made the Movies Here" (free) begins on Saturday afternoon. Eric Burdon sings in Amagansett on Saturday, and Southampton's Parrish Art Museum opens its 37th Juried Show this weekend. For details on these and other events, read on:

MUSIC

Celebrated Irish tenor Ronan Tynan will be at Southampton High School on Saturday at 7 p.m., performing the concert originally planned for September 15. Tynan is one of the "Three Irish Tenors," but he is also a solo star. Born in Ireland with deformed legs, Ronan Tynan has overcome many obstacles to become an accomplished equestrian and orthopedic surgeon as well as an award-winning singer. Saturday's program will include Irish bagpipers and step dancers. All funds raised go to the Dominican Sisters Family Health Service, which runs our local visiting nurses' association (nonsectarian) and other services for the elderly, frail, sick, disabled and uninsured. Tickets are a $100 donation; call (631) 728-0937.

Take Five 2001

with Jan Silver

Accomplished flamenco guitarist Ottmar Liebert takes the ancient Spanish music and fuses it with bossa nova, jazz, rock and funk to come out with a sound all his own. He will be at the Westhampton Beach Performing Arts Center on Friday at 8 p.m. with his band, Luna Negra XL2. For tickets ($35-45), call (631) 288-1500.

The Baltimore Consort, an early music group which plays English, Scottish and French popular songs of the 16th to 18th centuries, will perform at the Ross School off Rte. 114 (18 Goodfriend Drive) in East Hampton on Friday at 8 p.m. They have toured extensively across the U.S. and in Europe, and are frequently heard on NPR, BBC and CBC broadcasts. Tickets to the concert are $25 for adults and $15 for students or seniors. They are available at the door or by calling (631) 907-5555.

Music for Montauk offers songs from "Paris in the '20s" at the Montauk School on Saturday at 7 p.m. The free program is followed by a benefit reception and dinner at Caswell's Restaurant in Montauk. Singer/songwriter Eric Burdon will be at Amagansett's Stephen Talkhouse on Saturday at 8 p.m. (call 267-3117 for reservations).

FILM

The Hamptons International Film Festival is in full swing at the UA East Hampton Cinema through Monday, with programming also at Guild Hall, the Sag Harbor movie theater and Westhampton Beach Performing Arts Center. A schedule of events is printed in the Festival brochure and on their website www.hamptonsfilmfest.org.

Dan's Papers begins its free "They Made The Movies Here" series on Saturday, 3 p.m., in the Ross School Library's theater, East Hampton. This week's attraction is Alfred Hitchcock's stylish thriller North by Northwest starring Cary Grant (filmed in Glen Cove!). The series is hosted by Guy-Jean de Fraumeni and Sarah Halsey, and refreshments are served. There is no admission charge, but space is limited, so please call Maria at (631) 537-0500 to make a reservation.

THEATER

Bay Street Theatre's new-play reading series—all comedies this year—is this weekend. On Saturday at 3 p.m., David Newman's I Spend My Days in Longing is about chances missed, deals gone wrong and the difference between Italians and Jews. At 7 p.m., Craig Pospisil's Months on End involves a group of friends and family; it unfolds in 12 scenes. On Sunday at 11 a.m., Garth Wingfield's Are We There Yet? concerns a successful Manhattan woman who gets a shock that makes her question everything. A ticket for the series is $10 (no charge for Friends of Bay Street, but call for reservations 725-9500); Sunday's reading includes continental breakfast at 10:30 a.m.

SPEAKERS

The Reverend William Grimbol will tell stories as a fundraiser at Bay Street Theatre on Friday, 8 p.m. Local magician Allan Kronzek and his daughter Elizabeth will give a magic show at BookHampton, East Hampton, on Saturday (5 p.m.) to celebrate their new book The Sorcerer's Companion: A Guide to the Magical World of Harry Potter.

SPECIAL EVENT

Southampton's Parrish Art Museum opens its 37th Juried Exhibition on Saturday. With so many talented local artists and the Museum's fine reputation, this is always an interesting show. There is an opening reception from 5 to 7 p.m. The exhibition remains on view through November 11.

THE HAMPTONS INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

CRITIC'S CHOICE with Marion Wolberg Weiss

With so many good movies, panels and special presentations to choose from at the Hamptons Film Festival, here are some suggestions from our art critic, Marion Wolberg Weiss, on what's especially worthwhile. She bases her selections primarily on the films' creators.

A scene from Enigma

1. ENIGMA: This movie is recommended because of its creative team, director Michael Apted and playwright/ screenwriter Tom Stoppard. Mr. Apted particularly (Coal Miner's Daughter) combines dramatic themes with substantive characters and always excellent acting. UA-2, 2:45 p.m., Sun.10/ 21

2. LIFE AS A HOUSE: Director Irwin Winkler is a man who takes risks regardless of a film's commercial potential (as producer of Round Midnight and director of Night and the City) . Human relationships are the key in this non - Hollywood movie where thoughts and feeling count. UA-2, 5:45 p.m., Sat.10/20

3. FILMS OF CONFLICT AND RESOLUTION: Any of the six programs by filmmakers from the former Yugoslavia is highly recommended. Programs feature mostly short documentaries, with a few fiction shorts included.

UA-6,6p.m., Fri., 10/19

4. MEMORIES OF UNDERDEVELOPMENT: Included in "The Artistry of Cuba Series," this breakthrough film was the first (1968) to recognize Cuban national cinema. (Director Tomas Gutierrez Alea's more recent Strawberry and Chocolate, not included in the series, is a real treat as well.) Sag Harbor Theatre, 1:15 p.m., Sat.10/20

5. BEFORE NIGHT FALLS: For anyone who didn't see Julian Schnabel's film during its successful national run, it's a must for people who care about artistic freedom. UA-4, 12:30 p.m., Sat. 10/20

6. STUDENT FILMS: While most of these films come from New York University and don't represent a cross section of other significant works, they promise to be very professional and provocative, nonetheless. Many full - length movies in this festival are made by former student filmmakers. And don't forget, both Martin Scorsese (NYU) and George Lucas (USC) got their start making movies in college. UA-6, 6:30 p.m., Thurs. 10/18

7. YOUTH MEDIA PROGRAM: Any of the films presented by Children's Media Project will be valuable and most likely more surprising, relatively speaking, than the university student films. Guild Hall, 10 and 11:45 a.m., Sun. 10/21

8. A CRIME IN PARADISE: Director Jean Becker has a good reputation, and his black comedy is the kind of film we'd expect from the commercial French industry. So it's not French New Wave; it still has intelligence and verve, nonetheless. UA-2, 2:45 p.m., Sat. 10/20

Real (Estate) Comedy

BORG'S ART TO APPEAR IN HAMPTONS FESTIVAL FILM AND A GALLERY

Bridgehampton artist Wini Borg's art and "ARF dogs" are scene-stealers in The Shellphone, a short comedy that will be exhibited in the 2001 Hamptons International Film Festival. In conjunction with the film, The Gallery at Paul Edward Gingras Inc. in Southampton will be showing a selection of Borg's works that appears in the film along with recent pieces from October 20-November 20.

Film producer Daniel Sollinger said that Borg's "edgy art and unbelievable color sense" provided just the right tone and visual imagery for The Shellphone. Her paintings and assemblages clinched the selection of her home as the film's location and became central to its subject matter. Her art played the role of provocateur to a character, the milquetoast girlfriend of a home-seeking couple. The comedy by Jonathan Lennard pokes fun at the East End real estate business through the eyes of a couple from Manhattan.

A sub-plot, a flirtation between the male buyer and the female agent, reaches a crescendo in Borg's art-filled bedroom while outside on her "art patio," an outdoor art piece, sits his clueless girlfriend. Borg's ARF-adopted local dogs muscled into the film. After many retakes of a doorbell-ringing scene – when the formidable canines could not be stopped from rushing the door– they become bit players.

The Gingras Gallery is located at 70 Main St., Southampton, 283-4214. Borg's work can be viewed on the website, artofthehamptons.org. The Shellphone will be shown in a program of four films entitled "Showbiz is My Life," on Thursday, October 18, 2:30 p.m. at Guild Hall in East Hampton. Contact the Festival box office at 329-3920 for further information.

ART COMMENTARY

With Marion Wolberg Weiss

ARTISTS' WOODS SUMMER EXHIBITION

The fall season makes us yearn to get out into the country and see good art as an extra bonus. And although East Hampton's Artists' Woods, off Abraham's Path, is not exactly in the country, it will do very nicely. No matter that the space was still showing its summer exhibition when we visited last week; some of the same artists will be represented in the upcoming benefit, "USA 911."

There are other reasons to recommend a stopover at Artists' Woods, once the site of artist Adrienne Mim's home and studio. In fact, if you were a frequent visitor to Ms. Mim's abode, a sojourn will certainly evoke positive memories.

And while the sculpture garden cannot compete with the unique Long House Reserve, it wasn't meant to. The fall colors at Artists' Woods should add their own special ambience.

Some sculptures provided the strongest part of the exhibition because of their placement, particularly Gloria Rosen's pieces surrounding the pond: "The Totem," "Metamorphisis," and "My Fantasy." Ms. Rosen adds lots of lilting flourishes to her figures which effectively harmonize with the limestone material : the poetic and the substantial.

Entrance to Artists' Woods

Olinka Broadfoot's delicate stoneware "Swan" was also a pleasant addition to the pond. Anna Falco - Lane's "Fish," made of Moroccan marble, was noteworthy as well, its abstract configuration providing a nice contrast to the more realistic pieces in the same vicinity.

Norman Mercer's "Where" was another piece which worked well with the setting, capturing the glimmering sun of the outdoors. Phylis Hammond's metal sculpture was a nice surprise as a visitor rounded the bend along the path, its red color and driftwood fitting in with the nearby tree branches. Here nature and manufactured forms blended in an arresting way.

There's also a gallery in the main house. Unfortunately, those pieces were not placed well. There were simply too many works and too much diversity. Lost among the crowd were fine pieces by Anneli Arms (partïcularly "Fruit Bat") and Linda Stein's "Two Women Standing."

Less is more may be an old saying, but it's one to keep in mind.

Honoring The Artist: Julian Schnabel

This week's cover is unique. Not only does it pay homage to its creator, Julian Schnabel, a world-renowned artist and Montauk resident, but as the poster for the 2001 Hamptons International Film Festival, it also celebrates Schnabel's talent as a movie director himself. In fact, his latest work, Before Night Falls, is being screened at the Festival.

As an artist/ filmmaker, Schnabel joins other respected individuals who are accomplished in both visual and electronic media: namely David Salle and Mathew Barney whose films (Search and Destroy and Cremaster 2, respectively) will also be showing as part of the Festival's Artists Make Movies series.

Schnabel's first movie, Basquiat (starring Jeffrey Wright, David Bowie, Gary Oldman playing Schnabel himself, and Dennis Hooper) is a poignant quasi - biography of the artist Jean - Michel Basquiat and his rise, fall and death from a drug overdose in 1988.

Its theme touches a lot of bases. It is at once both a romantic, loving portrait of the charismatic, innovative Basquiat and an insider's look at a particular time and place in American art (when Keith Harring, Kenny Scharf as well as Schnabel and Warhol were at their heights). Basquiat has a lot in common with Before Night Falls, a movie which also captures a salient time and place (Cuba) and a heroic but self- destructive, doomed writer, Reinaldo Arenas.

But the film is not a sociological or cultural document. It's not even about the racial discrimination that impacted on Basquiat. Rather, it's really about a talented person who doesn't survive - because of his own self-destructive qualities or because people just didn't care that much about him. Simply put, Basquiat concerns a valuable human being's demise, not an art movement.

It may be difficult to discern how Schnabel's art plays a part in Basquiat. Yet there are reminders: for example, his subtle use of pink- tints that often inform his abstract splashes across a large canvas. Such colors evoke a delicate sensibility despite the boldness of his paintings' brushstrokes or his movies' daring themes.

Yet Schnabel isn't afraid to copy from other film movements for a few more bold touches. For example, there are the sudden, recurring cuts to incongruent images, like Basquiat riding a surfboard amidst a New York skyline during a dream sequence. (Perhaps this represents Basquiat's penchant for freedom.) While such cuts are reminiscent of the French New Wave, metaphors are also present in Schnabel's art as well.

Before Night Falls suggests other ways that Schnabel manifests his aesthetic values. Now it's up to us as viewers to find them.

–Marion Wolberg Weiss

Before Night Falls will be shown on Saturday, October 20 at 12:30 p.m. in East Hampton's UA-Theatre 4.

Correction

The cover artist's name on the October 5 issue of Dan's Papers was spelled incorrectly. The correct spelling is Carlo Maria Mariani.

THE FEROCIOUS BEAST

silvia lehrer's cooking column

We met Susan Ferlauto, a Westchester County prosecutor and her husband Hank, a computer consultant, whose hobby is winemaking, when they attended a couple of cooking classes last spring. Early in September an invitation arrived announcing an afternoon of winemaking, playing Bocce, shopping or walking on the beach. A prelude to dinner that evening, how thrilling!

My husband and I were glued to the winemaking process in the basement of the Ferlautos' Bridgehampton home. Centered in the room was a huge vat filled to the brim with zinfandel grapes that were previously crushed. With large wooden paddles Hank and a couple of friends, familiar with the process, stirred the grapes down forcing the juice to gush through the giant spigot into a large pail. Pails were then alternately tipped into an oak barrel for fermentation. Lining one of the cinder block walls of the winemaking room was an impressive rack, built by Hank, holding his vintage wines. Shelves lining another wall held jars of preserved fruits and sauce that Susan put up. The room contained all the equipment necessary for their food and wine passions.

Twenty-one places were set for dinner at one long refectory style table extending from the dining into the living room. Bottles of wine, baskets of crusty homemade bread (baked by a neighbor), platters of crostini topped with garlicky broccoli rabe were lined across the connecting tables. It was a joyful sight.

Now picture this - Hank and cronies boiling water in a many gallon pot on his outdoor grill to cook 5 pounds of fresh pasta. Of course I couldn't resist joining them. I put my two-cents in about draining the pasta, which was served with Hank's grandfather's marvelous tomato sauce. Chicken Scarpariello, a dish that Italian restaurants try and mostly fail, was perfection at the Ferlautos'. The amazing production continued when three enormous Italian style meatloafs, bowls of peas and mushrooms, roasted red peppers and as pure and delicious a squash puree as I have tasted, made their appearance. When Hank's ricotta cheese pie and several desserts, some homemade by guests, made their entrance camaraderie grew even warmer, as we shared sweet bites. At a time when psyches may be low, Susan and Hank created an environment of pure joy and gustatory bliss.

SICILIAN PASTA SAUCE WITH TAGLIATELLE

Hank suggests making the sauce a day ahead. He prefers to cook fresh (store bought) tagliatelle, flat noodle pasta to mix with the sauce. Note that the grated cheese is always Parmigiano Reggiano
Serves 6 as first course

8 tablespoons unsalted butter
1/2 large or small Vidalia onion, cut into small dice
1 28-ounce can Italian peeled plum tomatoes
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
1/3 pound white button mushrooms, thinly sliced
Salt and pepper
Freshly grated Parmesan

For the pasta
Coarse (kosher) salt for the cooking water
1 pound fresh tagliatelle or fettuccine

1. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a saucepan over medium heat and put in the diced onions. Cook, stirring occasionally, until onions are tender, 3-4 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, put the plum tomatoes in a blender and pulse several times until tomatoes are a coarse texture. Add tomatoes and tomato paste to the onions and stir to mix.

3. Melt remaining butter in a skillet and saute the mushrooms until tender and the mushroom liquid evaporates. Stir into the tomato mixture and season to taste with salt and pepper. Simmer, uncovered over medium low heat for about 20 minutes. Taste to adjust seasoning if necessary. Keep warm while pasta is cooking.

4. Bring 5-6 quarts water to the boil and put in 1-2 tablespoons salt. Put in the pasta all at once. Fresh (store bought) pasta will cook in about 3 minutes. Taste for doneness. Drain and toss with the sauce. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese.

CHICKEN SCARPARIELLO

Hank cuts the chicken into 14 pieces, discarding the wing tips. His secret seasoning is a product called Better than Bouillon, which he says is more flavorful than a bouillon cube and prefers a dry not a fruity white wine when called for.*
Serves 4-6

1 3 1/2 pound chicken cut into small pieces
1 cup instant Wondra flour
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup dry white wine, such as Pinot Grigio
2 teaspoons bouillon paste*
Juice of 1/2 lemon, about 2 tablespoons
1 16-ounce jar hot pepper rings, drained
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
12 sprigs Italian flat-leaf Parsley, leaves only, chopped

1. Wash and dry the chicken pieces with paper towel. Mix flour, salt and pepper and coat each piece of chicken shaking off excess.

2. Heat oil in a large skillet over high heat. Put in as many pieces of chicken to fit without touching and fry on all sides until golden brown. Cook in batches as necessary, and with slotted spoon drain excess oil on paper towels and set aside.

3. Adjust heat to medium under the pan the chicken cooked in and add the garlic. Saute for a few minutes longer, bring to the boil scraping up the browned bits to deglaze the pan. Add the bouillon and stir to dissolve. Stir in lemon juice, pepper rings and cook for one minute. Return chicken to the skillet and toss to coat with the ingredients in the pan. With cover ajar, cook for about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in parsley and serve.

CORRECTION

For the apple bread pudding in last week's column, adjust quantities to 1/2 cup liqueur, 6 tablespoons unsalted butter and 1 quart apple sauce.

Dining IN THE HAMPTONS

Giordano's
3360 Noyac Road, Sag Harbor
(631) 725-4444

"Where Dining is a Mediterranean Experience" is the slogan that owners Betti and Michael Dowling use to describe their upbeat, down home restaurant, Giordano's. A surprise awaits those who travel off the beaten Hamptons paths to this Sag Harbor restaurant that boasts an eclectic menu with something for everyone. The décor, beautifully executed by Betty, invites all to "Come on in and join us for dinner."

The restaurant's bar area contains six booths where you can dine casually and enjoy the music. The spacious dining room, located to the right of the bar, is comfortable, well-lit and welcoming. For outdoor dining in the summer, head for the large, neat outdoor patio.

Giordano's resturant

As we entered the restaurant, we were greeted with a friendly smile by Betty and quickly seated in the dining room. Our waitress, Amanda, greeted us and presented us with hot, home-made pizza breads. You have to be careful here – this bread is absolutely delicious!

Though pasta and pizza dominate the menu, other customary Italian dinners are not to be overlooked. There is an extensive selection that includes veal, chicken, pork and fish dishes, soups and salads, a well-balanced appetizer list, even individual pizzas, and I won't even talk about the desserts right now.

The wine list is extensive, with favorites such as the California Rodney Strong Merlot ($28), Santa Margherita, Pinot Grigio, Italy ($34). Bottled wines range from $18 to $68. After choosing our wine – my associates Lise and Kathy had the Pino Grigio and I the Montepulciano – we ordered appetizers that we decided to share, family-style.

The baked stuffed mushrooms were packed with a crabmeat stuffing that was moist and delicious. The calamari, crisp, light and tender, was served with a side of marinara sauce, and the generous portion of bruscetta (a mix of fresh mozzerella placed on thinly sliced Italian semolina bread) was seasoned with olive oil and fresh basil. The chef, Michael Laudecio, surprised us with a cold seafood salad of shrimp, clams, calamari, scungilli and mussels on a lettuce bed, accompanied by olives and tomatoes ($14.95). Antipasto and appetizer prices range from $8.95 to $14.95, soups from $4.50 to 5.75, salads from $5.

Next we tried a large, country salad that had a little bit of everything including green and black olives and shredded carrots topped with a delicious home-made zesty Italian dressing. My choice for dinner was the evening special, shrimp alla ter ($26.95), large fresh shrimp atop spinach, mushrooms, sun dried tomatoes, sauteed in bacon, garlic and shallots, topped with mozzerella over cappelini. This dish made my taste buds dance with delight. Kathy went for on the veal saltinboca ($19.95), which is a difficult dish to order because every restaurant makes it differently. Giordano's makes the authentic version of this dish, one that I used to enjoy so much at the Luna Restaurant in Little Italy. The veal, topped with proscuitto, spinach and mozzarella in a delicate wine sauce, was absolutely delicious. Lise decided to have the chicken Milanaise ($16.95), chicken topped with a spinach, carrot, and bermuda onion salad tossed in a light basalmic and lemon dressing. Wow! Every dish was beautifully presented, on large plates creatively garnished with fresh parsley and the portions were more than generous.

The service at Giordano's is unhurried, relaxed and accommidating. The wait staff is friendly, attentive and dedicated. Amanda was very informative as we inquired about almost every dish on the menu. Some of the more creative dishes on the menu include veal sorrentina, a wine sauce with proscuitto and eggplant, veal parmigiana, cacciatore, marsala, rollatine, scaloppine and francese. The Del Monico steaks, a house feature, are prepared broiled, alla pizzaola in marinara with olives or alla marsala with mushrooms. Chicken selections are also well represented, from the marsala to the Mediterranean.

The dessert platter is to die for. Better share them, even though we didn't. They are artistically displayed to each table for that inevitable desire for dolci dishes. There are sorbets in pineapple, coconut and orange ($5.95), tartuffo, coconut gelato, raspberry bomb ($5.95), cannoli and tiramisu ($4.95), plain cheese cake, key lime cheese, chocolate cheese and cappuccino cheese ($4.95.) We enjoyed the coconut gelato, raspberry bomb, tiramisu and tartuffo another entire meal indeed.

Giordano's is open year round, seven days a week. Monday is "Prime Rib Night," $15.95. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are "Pasta Nights," $12.95 to $14.95. Tony Della sings popular and Italian favorites on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings from 6 to 11 p.m. and "Jazz Night" with Ray Williams and Jim Demitrak on Thursdays from 6 to 11 p.m. Giordano's is a hidden treasure. Find it and enjoy!

Winter Flower Power

I had never entertained the idea of pulling up geraniums until this past fall. For years my aunt Terry has told me that she saved all her geraniums and had success planting them again in the spring. She would simply gather them up before the first freeze, put them in plastic trash bags and place them on her pool table in the basement. No water, no light. Turns out she was right.

All you have to do is dig them up before that first freeze. You allow the plant to dry off and you shake off all the excess soil that is clustered around the root so that the plant enters its dormancy period. Place the plants in brown paper bags, one per plant. If there are leaves on the plant you can either remove them or let them dry up and fall off.

Secure the bags with string or twine and place them in a cool dry place and check on them every couple of weeks. If they are starting to shrivel, mist them with lukewarm water. Don't let them get to the point that they are beginning to mold! If this happens, open the bag and let them dry out a bit. This is why I would not use the plastic trash bags. With a decent amount of luck you will have a repeat of your most gorgeous geraniums!

Forcing bulbs is a great way to bring spring back during the bleak days of the winter. The process is simple, but you have to plan ahead. To prepare bulbs, pot them in the fall and store them in a cold, dark place for nine to twelve weeks, then introduce them to light and warmth, which forces the bulbs to bloom.

Crocuses, hyacinths, irises, narcissus and tulips are all candidates for forcing. You can plan ahead and order bulbs from catalogs, or wait until around now and get them from your local garden supply. If there's a choice of bulb sizes, buy the biggest, usually called the "exhibition" size. Get enough of each kind of bulb to make a good show in a pot. Don't mix different sorts of bulbs in one container as they're apt to bloom at different times and give a spotty effect. If your bulbs arrive before you're ready to pot them, store them in a cool, well-ventilated area. Don't leave them in a closed plastic bag, they need fresh air.

You can use plastic or clay pots. The most important part of a pot is its drainage hole(s). Use a 4 to 6 inch pot for little bulbs and 8 to 10 inch pots for bigger bulbs. Make sure the pots are clean and sanitized to discourage any fungal disease. Soak any clay pots for a few hours to absorb moisture. You can cover any drainage holes inside the pot with a coffee filter to prevent a muddy mess.

Put the bulbs in the pots roots side down, but not touching each other. Fill the pot with enough potting soil so that when the bulbs are set in place their tops will be level with the rim of the pot. Place tulips so that the flat side of the bulb is facing out so that the large leaf that comes from the flat side will fall gracefully over the side of the pot.

The potted bulbs need cold treatment (temperatures should be around 35 to 48 degrees), sort of an abbreviated winter. During this 9 to 12 week period, the bulbs grow roots and undergo changes that prepare them for flowering.

I usually bring the pots inside in late January. To start the transition, put the pots in an area that is cool (about 40 to 50 degrees) and sunless. I use a basement room with a northern exposure. After a few days, the emerging shoots change from the color of blanched asparagus to green. Then place them near a window sill, an enclosed heated porch or somewhere the plant will get even light. Growing bulbs appreciate the same conditions that your usual houseplants would.

If you keep a record for a few years of how long it takes various bulbs to come into flower, you'll know what it takes to schedule the sequence of bloom. Don't bother trying to force bulbs for another year. They won't flower enough to be worth the effort.–Annette Garkowski/Gunnels

Looking for Firewood?
Look for ALB.
As fall and winter approach, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Cooperative Asian Longhorned Beetle Project will continue to perform tree surveys. During this period, USDA officials would like to remind everyone purchasing firewood or moving wood products in and around quarantine areas to be aware of the dangers of transporting the highly destructive Asian longhorned beetle (ALB).
White, wormlike ALB larvae live deep in the heartwood of trees, and transporting them to areas not currently infested would prove devastating.
If you have questions concerning the movement of firewood, or have spotted an adult ALB or ALB larvae, please call (631) 598–5943 or 1–866–265–0301. For more information, visit www.aphis.usda.gov/oa/alb/alb.html.

ARE SALON PRODUCTS REALLY BETTER?

You left the salon with a bag of goodies that your stylist swore you could not live without and now you wonder if they sold you nothing more than well packaged snake oil!

The simple answer is that salon products are, for the most part, much better than the products sold at your local grocer, but that is only the simple answer to a rather complex question.

What makes salon products better than over the counter products?

Ingredients. When you examine the ingredient list on a bottle of shampoo, what you see listed first is what there is most of in the bottle and so on until the end of the list which is what there is least of.

The first ingredient will frequently be water and the last ingredient is often a dye. Toward the top of the list you will notice an ingredient such as ammonium laurel sulfate, sodium laurel sulfate, or sodium laureth sulfate.

These are surfactants. Their purpose is to make water wetter, or to help the cleaning agents. A surfactant can also be a cleaning agent in and of itself. Salon products should contain gentler surfactants than store bought shampoo.

You will then see some conditioning agents listed. Your salon shampoo should contain higher quality protein based conditioners or moisturizing conditioners, thus enabling the conditioner to penetrate deeper into the hair shaft and lock in moisture. These quality ingredients contribute to the cost of the product, which is why they are not typically found in store bought porducts.

The remaining ingredients are included largely for consumer appeal or what we call "fluff." These contribute towards color, aroma and consumer buzz words such as honey and aloe. It is unlikely they can do anything in the quantity available in the bottle. Honey is added as an ingredient to appeal to your idea of what is good, whether it is based on scientific fact or not. Aloe is nothing more than water unless it is stabilized aloe.

Of late there have been rumors making their way around the Internet that sodium laureth sulfate causes cancer. To the best of my knowledge, and I have researched this, it is bunk. In all likelihood this rumor was circulated by over the counter manufacturers to combat salon products taking an ever greater hold on consumer preference. To the contrary, sodium laureth sulfate is infinitely safer than the ammonium laurel sulfate which is usually found in the cheaper brands.

Which is the best line?

Salon products vary in their quality and many product lines were built around only a few exceptional products, with the remainder being only average. To address this problem it should behoove a salon to carry a good variety of product lines to address the needs of all clients. The rest is a matter of consumer preference with regard to aroma, color and packaging.

If you find yourself thinking, "I bought the salon products and they didn't work," or, "they worked for awhile and then didn't work anymore. What's up with that?" there are a couple of possible explanations.

Sadly, very few stylists (or for that matter, manufacturers' reps) know anything about ingredients. What they do know is what the manufacturers have told them, which is to say, questionable data.

POLICE BLOTTER

The faggot filcher was back in Bridgehampton last week. This time Frederick E. David found himself a victim for the second time. Mr. David had a stack of firewood stolen from his front porch earlier that week. When someone came by in a pickup truck and offered him wood, Mr. David decided to replace his stolen stack only to have the new pile stolen two days later.

While we're on the subject of wooded areas, last Friday a man was seen in his natural state on a dune at Wyborg Beach. The leafless loomer was long gone by the time police arrived, but witnesses were able to describe the man as short and well tanned.

Gas prices are evidently still an issue in East Hampton. Sometime between September 14 and October 3, three boat owners at the East Hampton Marina had a few six-gallon gas cans stolen from their boats. Police reported each full can to be worth $67.05.

The midnight landscaper of Montauk was working over time last Sunday night. Paul Greenwood called police to report someone driving across his lawn at about 1:30 a.m. in an unidentified vehicle leaving $100 in damage in its wake.

A manic Manhattan motorist called village police in Sag Harbor last Sunday. The woman told police that she accidentally backed her 1998 Audi into a couple's car on Main Street. When the woman tried to talk with the couple, they became enraged and began to yell at her, leaving her "threatened and intimidated." By the time police officers arrived on the scene, the couple had fled.

Is your car inspection up for renewal? If it is, you may want to try and hunt down the culprit in an East Hampton incident at Sam's Garage on Three Mile Harbor Road on October 3. Police say a keyboard, monitor and printer utilized for New York State auto inspections was stolen costing the garage $1,211.25.

On our crazed island of car-caused catastrophes, a man was struck on Sag Harbor Turnpike in Bridgehampton last week. Omar Dottin, age 53 of Three Mile Harbor Road, managed to catch a train to East Hampton, after being hit, where he called relative for a ride. He was then driven to Southampton Hospital and treated for a broken arm.

A school bus driver hailed police last week in Montauk when two male high school students began fighting on the bus. The two-man (or should I say "child") melee soon grew to a brawling battle as their friends joined in, throwing things and cursing at one another. In an attempt to break up the fight, the driver stopped the bus and tried to make the kids leave, only to be spat on and cursed at by the unwilling passengers. When police finally arrived, the fight went on. They were eventually able to break it up and return the belligerent boys to their parents.

Apparently parking is still a problem in Sag Harbor. Last Friday, Peter P. Page of Round Pond had a little trouble finding his car. He called police and reported his 1997 Ford stolen along the two surfboards he had left on top. The next day the car and boards were found, to Mr. Page's relief, just a block away.

Dan's LETTERS

CHEERS FOR GEORGE W.

Dear Dan,

Thank you for your support of President Bush. As a Bush finance committee member, I had the pleasure of meeting him several times.

I am continually impressed at how he has rallied his troops and how focused he was on his goal. I admired him when he aspired to be President, and I admire him even more now, during the recent tragedy.

Your journalistic integrity, to admit that you may have perceived him wrongly, gives me faith. I appreciate you seeing beyond political affiliations to see the truth.

STROLLING (BY THE TRASH) BY THE SEA

Dear Dan,

I was pleased to read the article about access to Scallop Pond in the October 5 article. My girlfriend and I live nearby and for several years took an evening walk there two or three times a week. However, we had to stop a year and a half ago, as it had became a central site for testosterone poisoning and bad manners in Southampton.

We looked forward to our walk every time, but had to give it up because the place just got to creepy. My girlfriend, being the person she is, decided to just bring along a plastic bag every time to pick up the beer cans thrown all over the road. We decided we could overlook all of the spinning out of tires everywhere, but the pickup trucks backing in and dumping loads on the side of the road, or just letting the gate down and spinning out with stuff flying everywhere, just got to be too much.

But what finally put us off was the body parts – mostly deer but other animals too. It had become a year round dumping ground. It seemed every week there was something new to walk around, to get past.

So finally one day when we drove past the site and it was blocked off, I was upset, but at least I knew it would stop the offenders, and that was enough.

In all of our walks we never saw a police car around; now that it has been found to be a public road I hope they pass through often.

Howard Clifford
Southampton

Dear Dan,

Hero's Hands

I sing a song of hero's hands
Of strangers touched, the bewildered guided
Of pints collected and buckets passed
Of wallets opened and sustenance given.
I sing of wounds salved
And order restored
Of steel lifted and closure retrieved
A future reclaimed.
I sing a song of hero's hands,
Loving hands,
Healing hands,
All.

Mary D. Riotto
Ridge

Dear Dan,

9-11 Emergency

It happened to me in Hampton Bays while everywhere in the world that day
"Hotel California" playing on the radio
While people in the diner
Their hearts laid low
Breakfast being served as usual that morn
Terror in the sky and on the streets was born
Blasts like a furnace and flames in the sky, an airplane seen flying high
We stared in shock at one another, mothers, fathers, sisters, brother
What could we do, what could we say
To take away the pain of the day
We heard reports from everywhere
That there were terrorists in our air.
The Twins. The Pentagon, maybe more
Had hit their targets on our store
Nothing like this had been before
We all knew it could mean war
After everything said and done
This war we wage just must be won
Before our job on earth is done.

Victoria A. Heirston

If your products didn't work at all, chances are your stylist prescribed the wrong product for you hair. It is not a reflection on the line, but of the stylist or the salon.

If the product worked at first but then stopped working after a few months, chances are that the climate changed. Products that are right for you during one season are not always the best during another.

What about salons that carry ten or more lines?

Many of these are what we call "phantom" salons. Typically they have a large storefront brimming with salon products and a few salon stations tucked away in the back. They are more dedicated to selling retail than meeting their clients needs. There is simply no way you can carry that many products and really understand the benefits of any of them.

The only reason these salons even bother to cut hair is because they are not otherwise allowed to sell salon-only products. They are really retailers, hence the term "phantom" salon. I would not buy my products there as you also run the risk of purchasing low quality fakes.

What about salons that carry only one line?

Unless the salon is owned by someone like Robet Cromeans (excellent man, excellent salons), who is the director for Paul Mitchell, I frown on what we call "concept" salons. A salon should never be a slave to a manufacturer. When a salon does this they are more concerned about what is good for the manufacturer than what is good for the client.

What about organic products?

Yes, they're great, but unless they actually blended the products right there from fresh ingredients, it's also hooey. You simply cannot create a store line without preservatives. The ingredients would spoil before the product make it on the shelf.

Some over the counter products are just plain bad for your hair. Ones that come to mind are those that leave heavy deposits on your hair of a silicon like substance that will eventually cause static hair and hair breakage. Be careful of the Pantene line.. they are heavily into silicone.

Another product to watch out for are 'dandruff' shampoos. Almost no one has dandruff, and those who do, need a prescription medication. Dandruff is not flakes. Flakes are caused by dry scalp, not dandruff. The dandruff shampoo industry has made billions convincing Americans that they have dandruff. Dandruff is a yellow or gray oily powder and clumps together in little balls, not flakes. If you use a good shampoo and conditioner, your scalp will soon stop flaking. There are a lot of "Head and Shoulders" users out there that need to second look at their shampoo!

CREEPY CRITTERS

The nighttime woodlands seem extra spooky around Halloween, but daytime provides a great variety of creepy critters as well. We,ll get an up-close look at this creepy world as we probe under leaves and logs and at the lake bottom for all things slimy, wriggly, creepy and crawly. We,ll also listen to audiotapes of nature's most spooky sounds. Please meet in the parking lot by the rowboat dock.

Sotheby's INTERNATIONAL REALTY

The United States of America "Forever"

The real estate entities listed below consider it a "duty" and an "honor" to donate Five Percent (5%) of all the commissions earned to the "World Trade Center Relief Fund" through September 11, 2003!

The purpose of the "World Trade Center Relief Fund" is to assist the families and dependents of the victims of the September 11th terrorist attacks. This fund is for the benefit of all victims both injured and deceased, including innocent civilians, the dedicated firefighters, policemen, Port Authority Officers, Emergency Medical Personnel and relief workers.

You can help this effort tremendously by allowing us to assist you with any of your purchase or rental requirements or listing your properties for sale or lease. All this information will be shared with a network of Real Estate Professionals to expedite your needs and most importantly increase the revenues to help alleviate the financial strain of these families. These funds are to be donated in the names of the Sellers and Purchasers and/or Lessor and Lessee.

We respectfully urge all Real Estate Agencies to join us in this pledge for the benefit of our fellow Americans.

All Prayers Welcome!
